Times for Learning—Times for Knowing—Times for Creating—Times

for Giving—Times for Changing—Times for Being—Time Is for Now

Stars . . . moons . . . suns . . .

We are the brightness of the night.

Look up. See what the heavens reveal. Follow the poem's sight line. Look again. In the moon and the sun and each star, there glitters an individual strength; and a powerful glow is emitted from their unity. Thus, a universal truth is demonstrated in the life of each Myers Park student. He is a unique person, a star ablaze in potential and knowledge, talent and ambition, dreams and failures.

From the moment he enters those ominous buildings and accepts his assigned student number, he is striving to surpass that meaningless symbol; and determine, then exhibit the qualities which make 456214 a reality — a human being.

So while the struggle to prove superiority of life over number is quietly beginning in a thousand hearts, the suns and moons and stars are moving; constantly in motion, we travel our paths through the halls and by the unofficially designated trails of Myers Park. And in the course of three years each of our paths cross, crisscross, then intertwine. As contact is made, an extraordinary synthesis occurs. The unique moons and suns and stars glitter for themselves; yet the sparkle is reflected in every other body in the sky. They shine outward toward the universe; they sparkle to one another. This special celestial arrangement exists here. The metaphor structured by the poem is alive and active in each of us. Some think of it as spirit or unity; ultimately we know it as love.

This is the year for our celestial magic. The elements lie within each of us. Now we shall create that speciality which is ours alone. Through the seasons, give, watch, experience . . .

Confusing is the only way to describe the first agonizing days of a sophomore. Homeroom announcements usually confuse even more.

The excitement of a Myers Park football game cannot be equaled. Electricity shoots in the night when our marching band blares our spirit at halftime.

Times of Great Energy, Exaltations, Fears

Fall could not be complete without the interruption of English classes for class pictures.

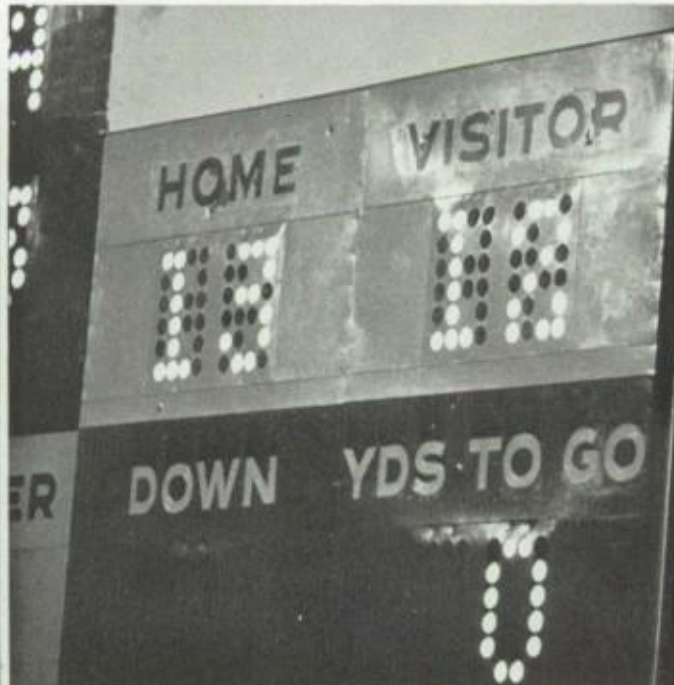

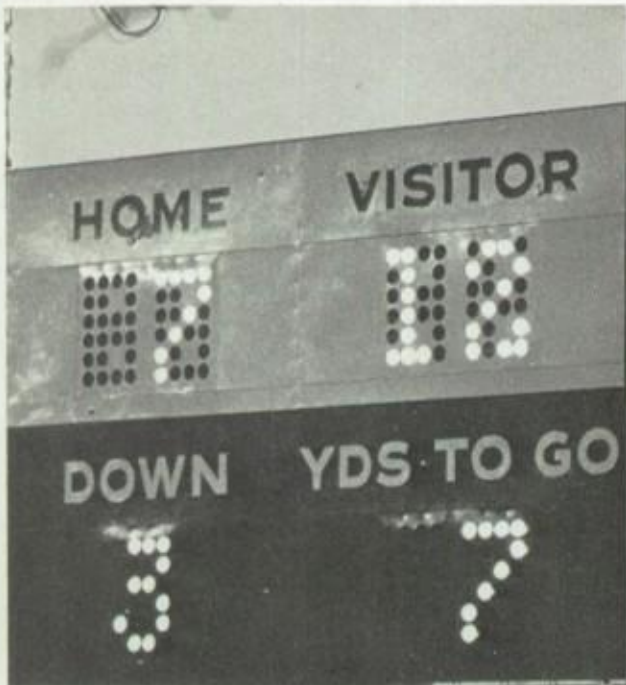

Some days nothing goes right. Some nights too. Mustangs always pull through in faith and strong spirit.

Yearly the Show Biz Revue offers a wide range of talent, from comedy duos up to chorus lines. Of course, only one chorus line — the Senior Girl Follies. With poised smiles they dared to face the Senior men.

Pull through they must, and pull through they do. "Green Power!" is the cry: Victory the result.

Mustang spirit cannot be matched. Whatever the odds, the enthusiasm always exists. It shows in the faces . . .

Glorify Dying Season

*The time is lonely
The time of year is me.
What will life reveal?
Can I be me?*

We enter the lonely halls of Myers Park in the season of sorrow and brilliance. The time is full of return, remembrances, and great apprehensions.

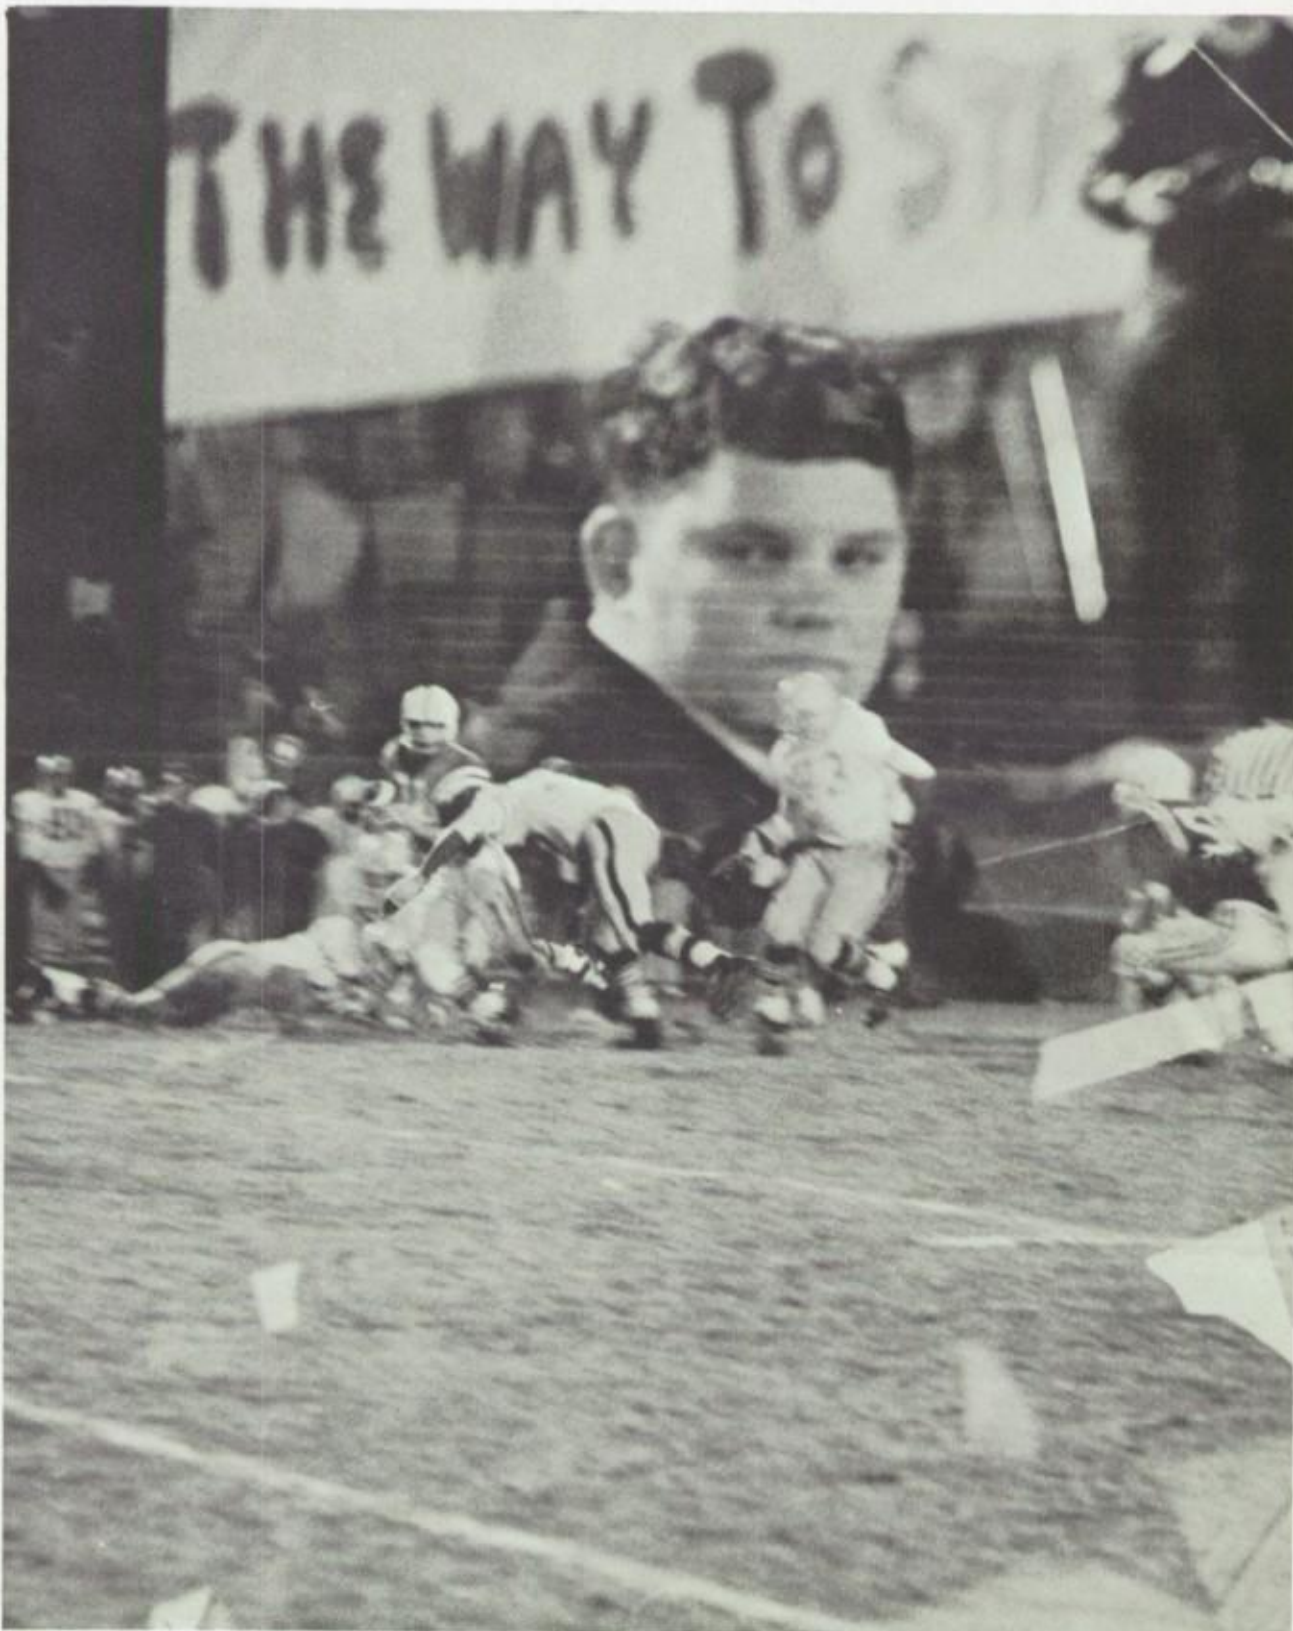

Sophomores are soon introduced to the search with which juniors and seniors are subconsciously, yet intensely concerned.

Myers Park is breathing and alive again: people, people — ourselves. Orientation, resolutions and graduation beset different ones now; and we all begin, or continue our search.

Senior men always display their feelings at sweet victory. Hands and hearts raised, feelings explode.

"All The Way To State, All The Way To State," comes the cry of the crowd in ecstatic frenzy. We almost made it, too. Bruiser Mann watches intently as our boys battle their way to State on the field.

Festival in the Park draws hundreds of MP students to participate in many facets. Lynn Jaffee as the Wicked Queen smiles slyly in "A Tree Grows in Razzle Dazzle."

Sophomores encounter a new course designed especially for tenth grade confusion. Dr. McCleod speaks to third period on their favorite subject — sex.

Bill Reynolds and Lee Stoffel perform in their enimitable style at the Myers Park Barbeque in October. Many students entertained as well as working through the day.

In the mist of the usual confusion in SC hall preceeding a dance, Cameron Bryant pauses to sigh happily at the accomplishments of Dance Committee.

At the annual New Girls' Tea, Ambassador Cora Pearson portrays the perfect villain.

Fantasy and Realism Combine to Stimulate Memory—Laden Fall

The sun and moon and stars govern our lives; at least at Homecoming presentation.

As our days run onward, living patterns develop, and the urgency of the first days quiets itself. Tests now threaten our sanity. Boards, National Merit, PSAT — the numbers flash by the mind's eye in anxiety. Yet, it is lightened by cries of "green power" in night air, and heavy rhythms of a band amidst darkened signs of the zodiac. Feel the pulse of our living. It throbs on the dance floor, on the stage, in our halls.

*Life, look here at me.
You hurt. I ache with (your) reality.
But wait! I need. You must not go.
Faces in puzzles — so much left to show.*

Toward mid-October, Homecoming gives alumni the chance to return and see to their dismay that MP has survived without them. The only necessity to enjoying this dance was being totally alive and in search of more life.

Given every year for new girls, the tea better acquaints them with people and MP.

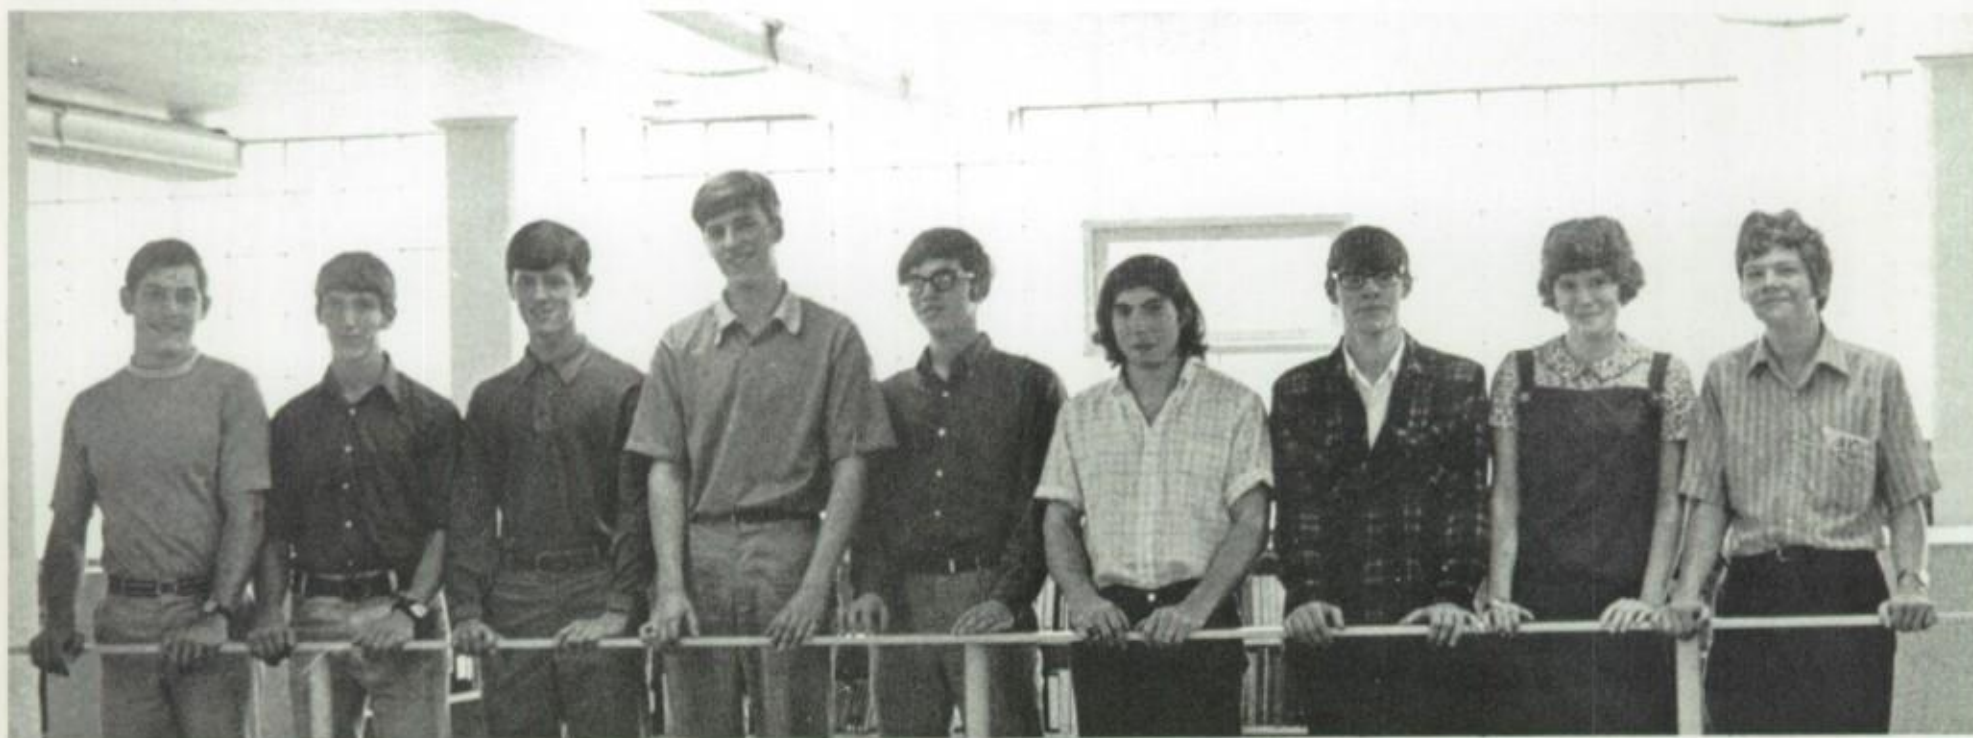

Mustangs find many ways to show support of their team. Richard Salisbury wears the true dress of a "Mustang."

All that excess energy that builds up during school has to work itself out some way. Coach Ayers intently watches as Neil Fisher prepares to pass during an intramural game.

Myers Park has always been recognized for the number of National Merit Finalists it has each year. The ten finalists for 1969-70: Brent McKnight, Jack Wallace, Robert Donnan, John Douglas, Robert Williams, Mitch Lewin, Ned Spencer, Barbie Trimble, Bill Barnes; not pictured; Bill Coxe.

Tedious Work Results in Various Honors for Individual Mustangs

Receiving the Harvard Book Award in 1969, Robert Donnan was presented with the Morehead to UNC.

Within the physical boundaries of our campus are individuals who know no real bounds to their energy and talent. Our school serves as a living laboratory in which we discover and explore personal desires and needs. Some strive for scholarly excellence; some discover a strong capability to direct the eagerness of their peers. Others find deep satisfaction in the creative realms of art, music, and drama.

In all imaginable aspects, MP students radiate a quality unique to our school experience: difference. Yet through the development of the individual difference each brings quiet honor to himself and MP. We effectively turn heads on national, state, local, and campus levels. These few are reflections of us all: familiar faces bound together in honor.

Winner of both Morehead and Angier B. Duke scholarships: Brent McKnight. Barbie Trimble won A. B. Duke.

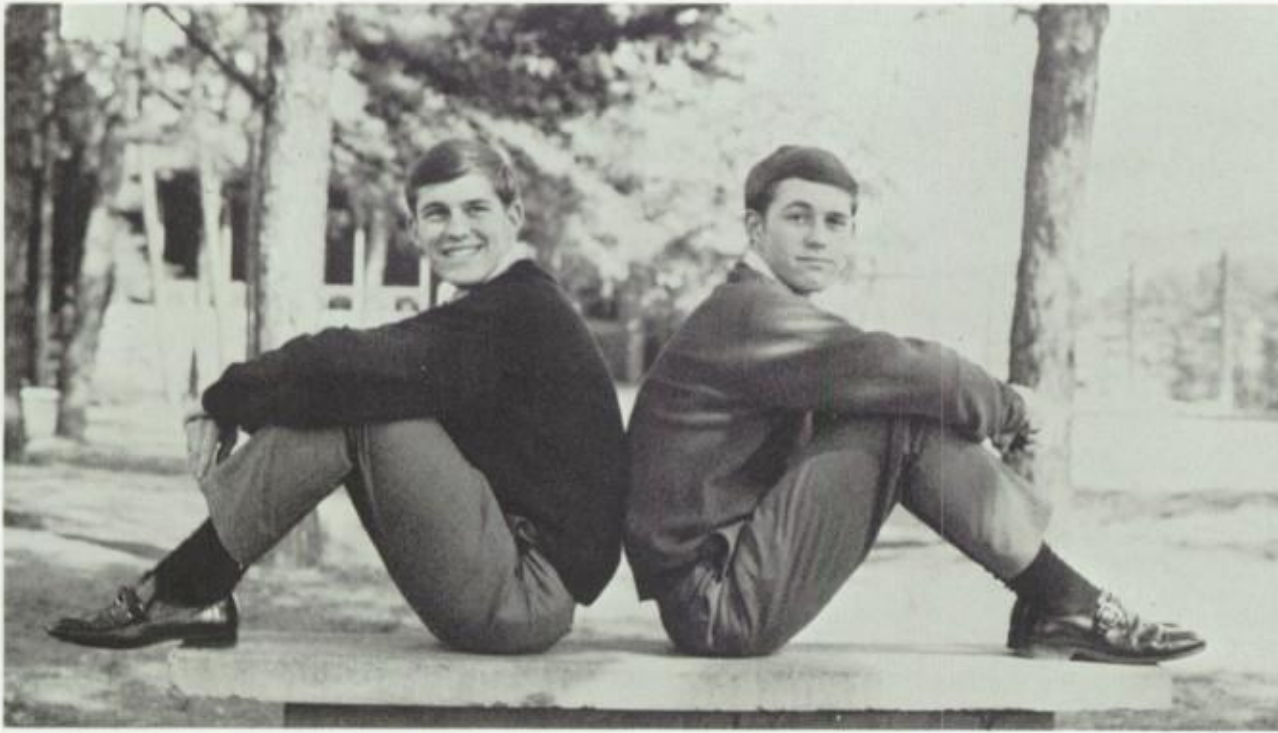

Always there are a few who miss the Merit cut-off by several points. This year, they were: Tom Cunningham, Amy Gadson, Marsha Beam, John Brady.

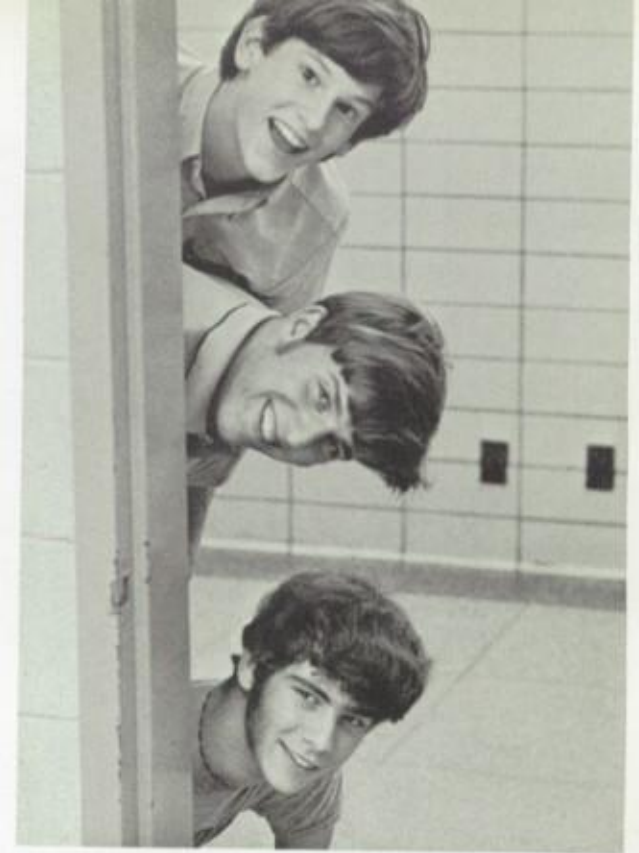

A leader in the field of art, Connie Urban, winner of Hallmark Awards and innumerable state and local awards has brought great recognition to MP.

Awarded every spring to an outstanding Junior by the University of the South, the Sawanee Award is based on character, scholarship and leadership. Presented to Cliff and Chris Kirk last spring, it was well awarded.

This spring Jim Alexander, John Douglas, and Jeff Johnston were awarded with scholarships to Davidson.

In the spring of her Junior year, Cora Boris Pearson was presented with the DAR Good Citizenship Award.

Sponsored each year by the American Legion, Myers Park sends representatives to Girls' and Boys' States. Jones, Alexander, Donnan attended Boys' State '69; Connally Bush was representative to Girls' State '69.

Selected by the members of the Senior Class, Jane Pettus and Robert Donnan: Danforth Award Winners.

Various Award Winners: Taylor UNC-G; Adkins, UNC; Garmon, Wake Forest; Kirk, Davidson; Pilgrim, Jones, Tenn.

Larry Ruddell and Cora Pearson are considered to be the prototype of Mr. and Miss Myers Park.

That unmistakable spirit is present once again. It is ostentatious at times, yet subtle, in that it remains as an underflow of feeling within the school. Mark Cherry springs to block his opposition.

A Cold Wind Turns

Look at that face — just look at it! Definitely a Mustang with the urge to display his enthusiasm?

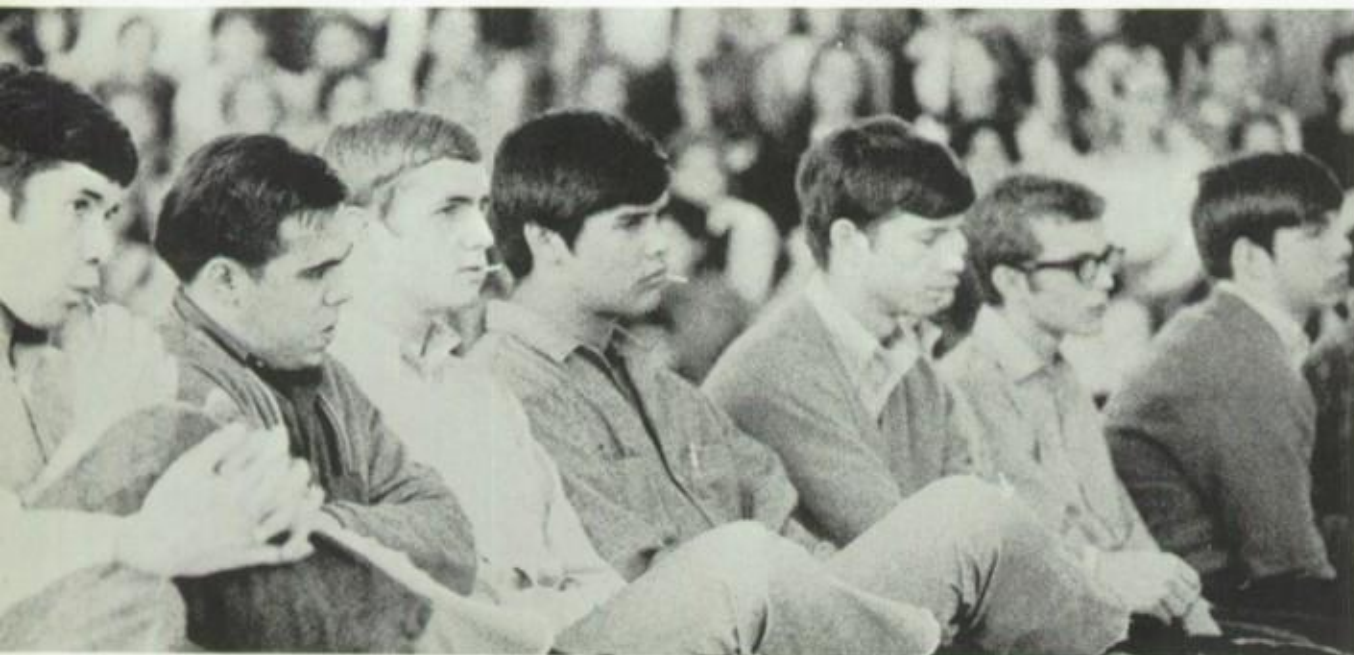

One of the highlights of the many assemblies presented during the winter months, was a fashion show, produced and performed by D.E. students.

Out jumps Christopher Wrenn (Justin Eller) to reveal to Chris Hensley the secrets he has learned by creeping around Monkswell Manor in THE MOUSETRAP.

Big men who play on big basketball teams must maintain a special attitude that sets them apart from the world. To MP you are special, boys. A smile wouldn't hurt your game too much?

Richard Salisbury sends victory greeting of "Gimme five," the Senior Slap.

Darkening Days into Deeper Reflections

Pages of a book flutter in the whimpering wind; burnished leaves scamper past the window. Our minds turn deep within ourselves. The sleepiness of winter makes the mind travel endless circles of questioning.

*Here I stand.
Waiting for something; for a dream?
The world spins 'round me.
Reasonless, empty, futile.
I should go. I should go.
But here stand I. For a dream?*

Ideas scream at us from the pages of a book, from a crowd of basketball enthusiasts, from naked trees silhouette in the stark afternoon sun. We are always moving — toward what? Always, why is printed in the endless winter days.

In heavy woolen shells we shield ourselves from nature. Deep within, warm hearts are speaking and listening to one another. Faces flushed with cold peer eagerly at the sky in the elated hope that that peculiar southern snow might offer relief in the agony of exams. We are happy and tired. We watch Thanksgiving and Christmas scurry past with an intense faith in what is to come.

Digging through the ideas of the past, we are composing a formula for our present, and our near and distant future.

The World of Carl Sandburg was quite expertly explored by a professional troupe in an assembly.

This year brings Women's Liberation to Myers Park in the form of pants, courtesy of Student Council.

A joy and a highlight of the teacher's year is the banquet given them by GAC in late winter in honor of their just being their wonderful selves.

Amy Yopp, Beth Jones, Jane Pettus, Nancy Smith, Ann Johnson, and Tricia McLaughlin perform a hobo dance for the teachers' benefit.

Time, Exams, Sleep, Dreary Skies Force

Interested readers and talkers find quiet thought and good discussion with Mr. Fulcher's Great Concepts.

Wrestling matches vie for some of basketball's attentive fans during colder months. The sport fascinates male and female alike, primarily because of the appeal of controlled power struggle between two individuals.

Very subtly knowledge begins to sink into the mind and old ideas of winter and new ideas found under a microscope start to intertwine toward spring.

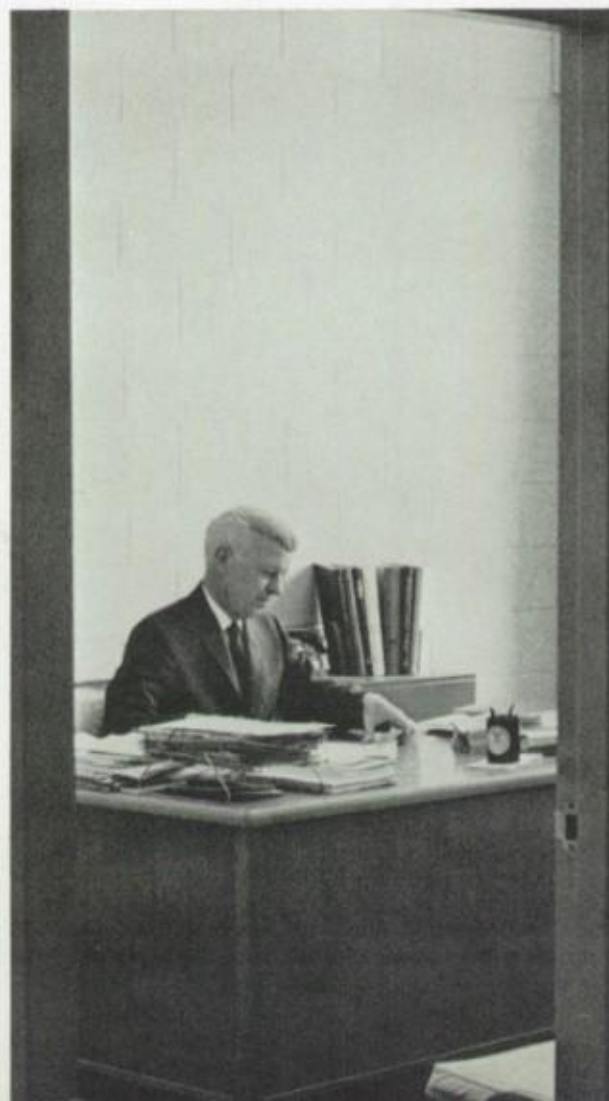

At an International Relations Club meeting, vice-president Cliff Kirk listens intently to one of the club's guests.

In one of numerous assemblies, Jane Perrin and Melanie Berson sneak about, trying to fool the new members of the National Honor Society.

As winter becomes spring, Mr. Feimster's office comes to represent college entrance to many Seniors.

After many weeks of private practice and group rehearsal, Mr. Mims conducts the orchestra in their winter concert.

Restless Mustangs To Dreams of Spring

The winter has brought us realization of the sometime loneliness accompanying individual development. It could be considered sad. On the contrary, it gives us the time to evaluate and compare elements of our lives, time to examine those around us.

Spotlighted on arena stage are reflections of our need and problems. Far beyond the illusion, we see in surrounding faces yearning for arrival of spring; questioning and searching penetrate our every action. For some, it is a simple desire to be unburdened by winter clothes; for others, it is a subtle terror to grasp yet unturned knowledge, and to discover understanding and love of yet unknown friends.

When will winter go? When will spring come?
Hopefully when the rain stops.

The sluggishness of winter has begun to wear off the spirits and minds of Mustangs. Exams are past; first semester becomes a memory. Thoughts slowly turn into longing for spring. In this transition, everything planted in minds of fall begins to stir.

*Mind awaken! Awake and see
How in the depth of winter
It all came to be.
My mind, my world — a self for me.*

The world has now awakened. We too are awakening to ourselves, to each other, to the world.

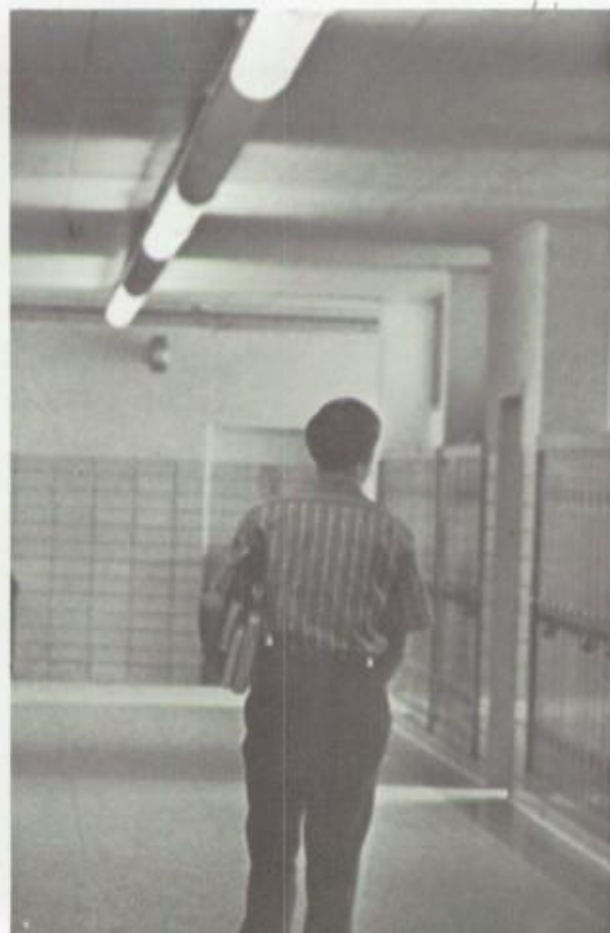

Susan Reed, portraying Miss Casewell in MOUSE-TRAP, ponders her next move in the murder ridden house.

German exchange student Jurgen converses with Jean from Luxembourg at an International Relations Club Meeting. The exchange students express a great desire to meet as many people as possible.

The early days of spring can be a bit sluggish causing students . . .

. . . and causing teachers alike, to find the quickest way to get home. Out the back Hinson!

Lovely Warmth of Spring Envelopes MP; and Living Explodes

Spring fever hits Myers Park hard, and very quickly. The urge to lie in the grass and skip class becomes difficult to live with, so a good game of pass, catch on campus will suffice for a while.

Impatience becomes acute in the minds and hearts of MP students. We can smell the fresh aliveness of our new world outside the classroom windows. The urge to lie in the warm sun is uncontrollable. The pace of our lives quickens once again. Aside from all purpose, our living is good.

*Gaiety, laughter
Fantasy is free
In color almost blinding
Life gives herself to me.*

Jurgen dips into the washtub party bowl, characteristic of Dogpatch at Sadie Hawkins.

Among numerous club activities, students ban together to produce a cushion concert permeated with hard rock. Chris and Mike Pittman, Bob Stetler, Drexel Rayford perform as one of the youngest groups.

Mid-March is the time for class rings — a time of excitement for Juniors.

Even an old man (John Douglas) doesn't mind having his hair polished white. The play's the thing!

Students were told buses had less pollutants per square mile than cars. So? Bicycles have much, much less than either on a beautiful day like Earth Day.

When push comes to shove, it's nice to know that some cardboard looks as if it tastes good.

Every school should have a machine that eats stray papers and trash; yet why, Joan Hope asks, must we come so early to see it?

Portraying an emotionally disturbed adolescent placed in a special school, Justin Eller creates an overwrought boy who impresses the audience.

Bob Lewis slowly eases one end of the New York back drop for Jr-Sr. Around The World In Eighty Days crammed world travels into one beautiful evening.

After months of practice and preparation, Myers Park's NJROTC unit is officially commissioned in an early assembly.

In a Time of Turmoil We React;

Honors and Awards Day was not as long this year; but enough scholarships and honors were presented to make the blistering worth it.

When at long last the spring rains stop and the grass begins to grow, the warm days are hard to resist during lunch periods. Anne Edwards and Larry Ruddell prefer to sedately soak in the sunshine while Callie Jones exercises her senior woman's privilege of stretching out on her stomach.

Seniors must cope with caps and gowns measurements. What an effort it takes to get one's head measured!

Baseball led the list of attention items. What is sweeter to a senior than a last victory?

We Watch and Create, We Give and Love

*In a time of war and hatred
When all reason seems forgot
A realization of love is found
By multitudes across our nation.*

As at the gathering of so many free souls which has come to represent the spirit of youth today, Myers Park opens her eyes to change. Attitudes toward living, learning and freedom are basically the same as in past years; yet this spring is characterized by an undercurrent of fluid emotion, directed at all aspects of school life. We are acutely

We are alive: in mind, in heart, in spirit. Freedom is the cry — freedom of intellectual, political, artistic pursuit — of the pursuit of human rights. And ever present is hope for future peace.

*In freedom of the mind
And peace growing in the soul,
Idle death will stop.
Of this an old-new found knowledge
To us can now be told.*

aware of the world in relation to school and ourselves. We are aware.

Horners Give Talent Scholarship, Service

The Horner Awards were established in 1962 to honor Dr. Jack Horner who was principal of Myers Park from 1955 to 1960. This award is to commemorate his five years of faithful service and leadership to this school and to honor the seniors who strive to provide this same kind of service and leadership.

These students are chosen by their fellow classmates as the best representatives of the Horner ideals. Each student possesses leadership, scholarship, service, dependability, and outstanding character. They typify the qualities that this year's seniors believe to be characteristic of their class. The number of students varies from year to year, but the qualifications always remain the same.

They give unselfishly of their time and talents to committees, clubs, organizations, and other activities for the betterment of our school. Horner Award winners have brought honor to our school in scholarships and other awards in academic circles, art awards, drama and musical awards and presentations, and sports trophies in major and minor sports.

Through willing contribution of their distinguishing characteristics to our school, these Mustangs widen the horizon of Myers Park. They reflect the temper and attitudes of this school year; they are the personification of qualities which we all hold as standards for MP. These are images of ourselves: individuals bound with love towards a common goal.

Times for Learning—Times for Knowing—Times for Creating—Times

for Giving—Times for Changing—Times for Being—Time Is for Now

We are black; we are white; we are multi-colored individuals, bound together in a million conflicting emotions. We are learning to acknowledge the existence of death and misery as well as life and comfort. Concerned about our children's future in a world of increasing pollution, we react. We serve the community through organized clubs. Blatant as the statement appears, it possesses truth. Far beyond academic requirement, we gather in a physics lab to explore writings of ancient intellect and fantasies of modern minds. We yell and cheer, sing and compose, act and build, paint and study, judge and forgive, explore old problems and create new ones. In this one year we have been exposed to many different teachers, attitudes, needs, ideas, challenges and defeats. We look into each others faces. Some see white, some see black. But our minds are equally different. Here, and now, that will be the starting place.

So a year of time and life has spun past us. For some this has been the first year, for some next year will be the last, and for others the time is gone. What magic was created this year? How brightly have we all shown? A time of political-social disturbance in our nation and a time of changing personal values for us and our brothers. How have we reacted? We shall always know. There is love in our school. Deeply rooted in the ideals and individuality of every student is love, which is hope for peace and understanding. Our spirit — the changing spirit encompassing every aspect of living within these halls and beyond — is shining brilliantly. The reflection of two thousand different stars is blinding. It is celestial magic on earth; and each of us will ever radiate some of that glow in as many unique ways as it was first created.

It is secretaries who keep records and type college transcripts.

It is a counselor who will always hear your problems.

It is assistant principals, Mr. John Lee and Mr. William Oliver, who are known as disciplinarians but also as friends.

of Our Trade World

Business is a vital part of American life. For this reason, Myers Park offers a comprehensive program of clerical, secretarial, and personal skills using computers, typewriters, and other business equipment.

For those desiring a computer background, a data processing course is offered. After acquiring the skills necessary for office work, some people find their background useful in part-time or full-time jobs.

Typing, one of the more useful skills offered at Myers Park, provides improvement in the appearance of one's work in other areas.

In Distributive Education and Industrial Cooperative Training, students learn business and trade skills while receiving on-the-job training and remuneration.

Other courses — Fashion Merchandising, Business Law, and Advertising — are also included in Myers Park's vast Business Department.

Chaucer's Middle English Poetry Challenges Sr. English Students

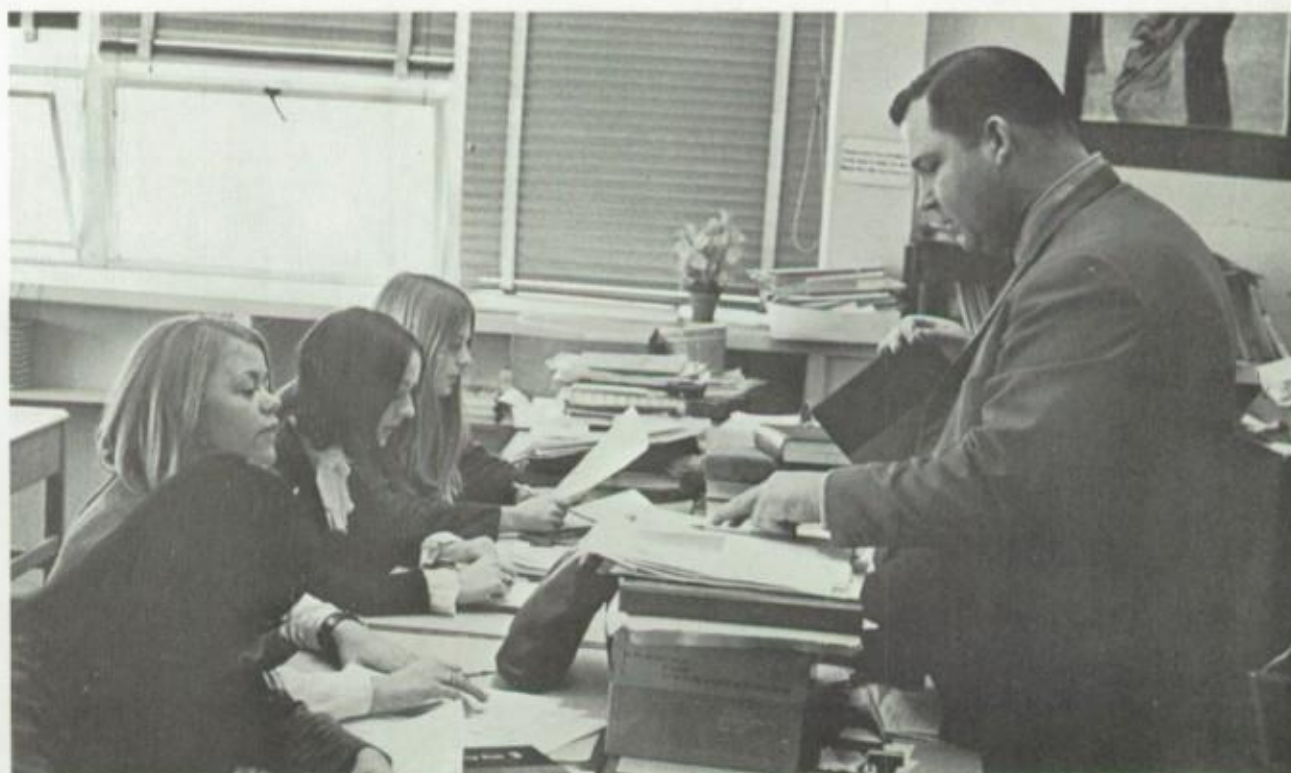

What do teachers do after school hours? They go to faculty dinners dressed in their Sunday finery just like Mrs. Duane Bennett and Mr. Floyd Campbell. They won the prize for the best dressed couple there.

"Whan that Aprille with his shoures soote . . ." echoes through the halls of LA as seniors cram their heads full of Chaucer's middle English. The senior English course at Myers Park concentrates on English literature and theme writing. During the course of the year, seniors read Beowulf and several of Shakespeare's plays such as Macbeth and Henry IV.

While seniors study poems by Wordsworth and Byron, juniors are busily plowing through Moby Dick and The Scarlet Letter. The junior English course centers around American literature with emphasis on such authors as Edgar Allen Poe and John Steinbeck. Eugene O'Neill's plays provide the drama portion of the course. Students study the origin of the theatre from the time of the Greeks. The highlight of the junior English course is a term paper.

Miss Elizabeth Brice informs her advanced English class that they will have to write a term paper.

Oy Mon Wu, Debbie McQuaid, Meredith Beasley and Susan Wills take notes in Mr. Campbell's class on the basics of human behavior. Students can take what they learn in this class and apply it to their everyday life.

Sophomore English students receive a mixture of literature. Through stories, poems, and plays, students are exposed to the various types of literature from different areas of the world. Emphasis is placed on grammar and vocabulary.

Each grade level of English is divided into three sections to meet the students' different levels of ability. In addition, Myers Park offers a Special Abilities and Talents program for those Students who are ready for more challenging work. Qualified Seniors may apply for advanced placement English which is taught on the college level.

Senior and world literature are offered for students who wish to broaden their knowledge in the humanities. Great epics and classical works are two of the areas covered in this course.

Linda Hutchinson and Debbie Mims take the day off from English to go browsing through the art show.

Students Retreat to the Library after Lunch

While the other students in Mrs. Duane Bennett's junior English class do some last minute cramming before taking their quarter exam, Jim Hoxie, front center, uses the time to read the latest spy thriller.

Some students claim that to be a full fledged student at Myers Park, one must be kicked out of the library at least once. Conversationalists Bob Keleman and Bill Kumerow have been initiated many times.

To Myers Park students, the library offers a place for catching up on homework doing research for a paper or relaxing with a magazine.

Having over 18,000 books and 158 magazines, the library provides competent information for research. The Reader's Guide and other resource books enable students to find information quickly.

Myers Park's library also has such up-to-date equipment as a micro-film reader, a xerox copying machine and even an electric pencil sharpener. The library is also equipped with an audio-visual room and several soundproof listening rooms.

Foreign Languages

Suprenant, sorprendiendo, iiberraschend or admirari. No matter what language is spoken, the adjective that best describes our Foreign Language Department is surprising. The department has experienced a rebuilding phase this year. New faculty members include Mr. Oglesby in the French department and Mrs. Gaughan and Miss Idol in the Spanish department. The Foreign Language Department can claim many accomplishments. Under the leadership of Mrs. Wright, Latin students won honors at the annual State Junior Classical League convention in Chapel Hill this year. After last year's successful French plays, Mrs. Cox proclaimed that she could never do another; yet, in March, Le Medcin Malgre Lui, and La Farce Du Cuvier were successfully performed under her direction.

"What is more horrifying than a "grand trou" or a "quid" in French class?" questions Mrs. Cox. Students Anne Edwards, Pam Adicks, Jenny Allen and Lynn Fleming reply with, "a surprise party, of course!"

Dr. Lewis strives to establish a good relationship with our foreign neighbors overseas. In this Egyptian nightclub, he is fraternizing with a belly dancer.

Myers Park's Fine

Myers Park has an excellent Fine Arts Department which brings the school entertainment and honors each year. A variety of courses are offered including choral music, band, orchestra, drama and art.

During August, the members of the marching band begin their daily rehearsal, practicing hours to perfect their routines. Myers Park was well represented at the Carousel Parade Band Contest, and the band brought home the prize for the "Most Original."

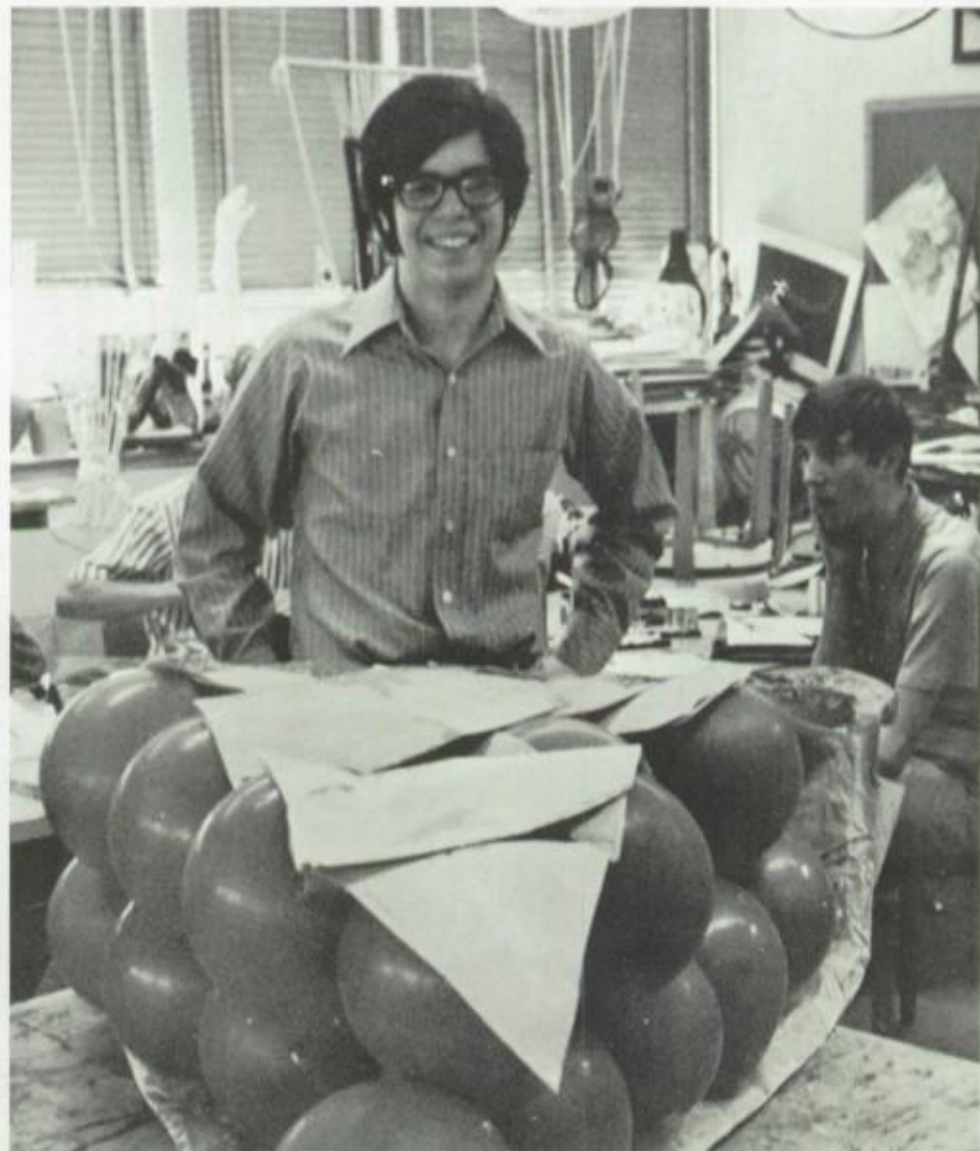

Not to be outdone, the orchestra received all superior ratings at the annual orchestra festival in Greensboro. Achievements include two evening performances and a concert for an assembly. Several orchestra members were chosen for the All-State Orchestra.

At Christmas, the orchestra and choir presented the Christmas portion of The Messiah at an assembly. Many of the choir members sang in the annual Messiah chorus at Ovens and were recognized for their outstanding work and vitality. Several students from the choral department were chosen for the All-State Choral Festival in Greensboro.

Drama has always been an outstanding part of the Fine Arts Department. Productions this year included Mousetrap, David and Lisa, and a production for the Festival in the Park. David and Lisa received standing ovations from sell-out crowds.

Each year, the Art Department is awarded numerous honors. In the Senior Scholastic Art Contest, Myers Park students won 47 of the 200 Gold Key awards given and three Hallmark nominations. The art department also took first prize in the Shoney's Christmas Window Contest. One of the highlights of the year is the annual sidewalk art show in which students display and sell their work.

Myers Park's Fine Arts Department gives students an opportunity to develop and display their exceptional talents.

Math courses include general math, Algebra I, and geometry. Myers Park also offers Algebra II, Algebra III, Trigonometry, and Math Analysis. The consumer math course gives students a view of the practical applications of math. Students are given problems such as dealing with compound interest on loans and practice in working with balance sheets.

Sportsmanship, teamwork, cooperation, physical and mental fitness all serve as the basis for the Myers Park physical education classes. Along with these basic ingredients, the courses also stress body flexibility, grace, stamina, balance and coordination.

Emphasizing the importance of following a regular exercise program, each class begins with a number of stamina-producing exercises such as push ups and jogging.

The girls' gym classes follow a program designed especially for grace and fitness. Courses include instruction in tumbling, track, tennis, field hockey and modern dance. Boys build up their strength by lifting weights and by using the chin-up bar. They also compete in such body building sports as football, softball, basketball and track.

Physical education offers the opportunity to participate in group activities as well as in individual sports. The Physical Education Department at Myers Park offers students recreation as well as improvement.

Since the beginning of history, man has wondered about himself and his environment. Through this natural curiosity the sciences have evolved.

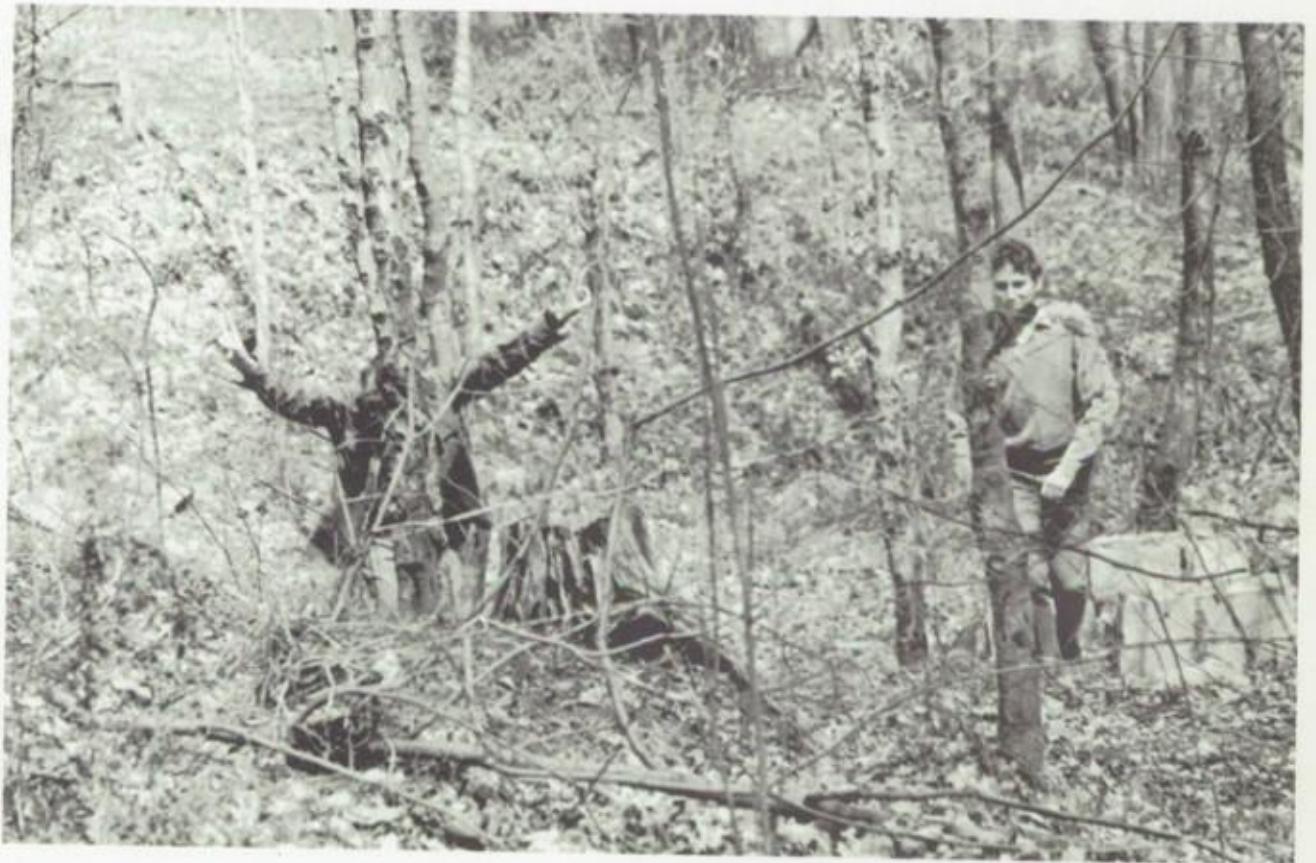

Many of these sciences are offered in the Myers Park science department. One is Biology I: a study of the living world of plants and animals. Biology I students perform such operations as dissecting frogs and earthworms, and growing algae culture in test tubes. They also find a new world of squiggly protozoans and other microscopic animals under the microscope. Genetics and laws of inheritance are other phases of biological study.

Another field of science which is offered at Myers Park is chemistry, the study of the elements and the changes they undergo.

By using the redox method, students learn to balance chemical equations. They then apply this and other mathematical computations to experiments in the laboratory. If the student wishes to further his knowledge in chemistry, he may take Chemistry II. In this course the student is basically on his own, undertaking projects of his own interest such as the effects of radiation on bacteria, electrophoresis of blood and even computer programming.

The study of physical phenomena such as forms of energy, forces and motion is included in the physics course. In one aspect of this, the characteristics of waves are shown to be the same concerning water, light and sound.

from Prehistory to Problems of Pollution

Myers Park's social studies curriculum includes a variety of courses ranging from economics to Bible. A student is required to take both world history and American history and he may elect such courses as current history or psychology.

In psychology, students get an overall view of the "science of the behavior of man" with a more detailed study in the area of mental health.

Economics classes work with comparison shopping and do independent studies on various aspects of our local, state and national economy. Students also gain valuable experience in filling out income tax forms and in learning how to budget money.

World history involves a study of mankind throughout the world from prehistoric days to the present. American history is a specialized subject dealing only with events related to the development of the United States.

Bible can be chosen as either a semester or a year course according to which portion of the Bible the student desires to study.

"But Coach look! It's right here in my notebook!" exclaims Warren hoping to get a better grade.

Imagination, careful planning, and a lot of elbow grease go into the making of a successful industrial arts student. Offered as a full year course as well as a semester course, industrial arts is open to both boys and girls. Only two projects are required. Any additional projects are of the students own choice. ## New Courses Enlarge the MP Curriculum

Myers Park is a constantly changing panorama. Girls in the darkroom and orientated sophomores are among the new sights at Myers Park.

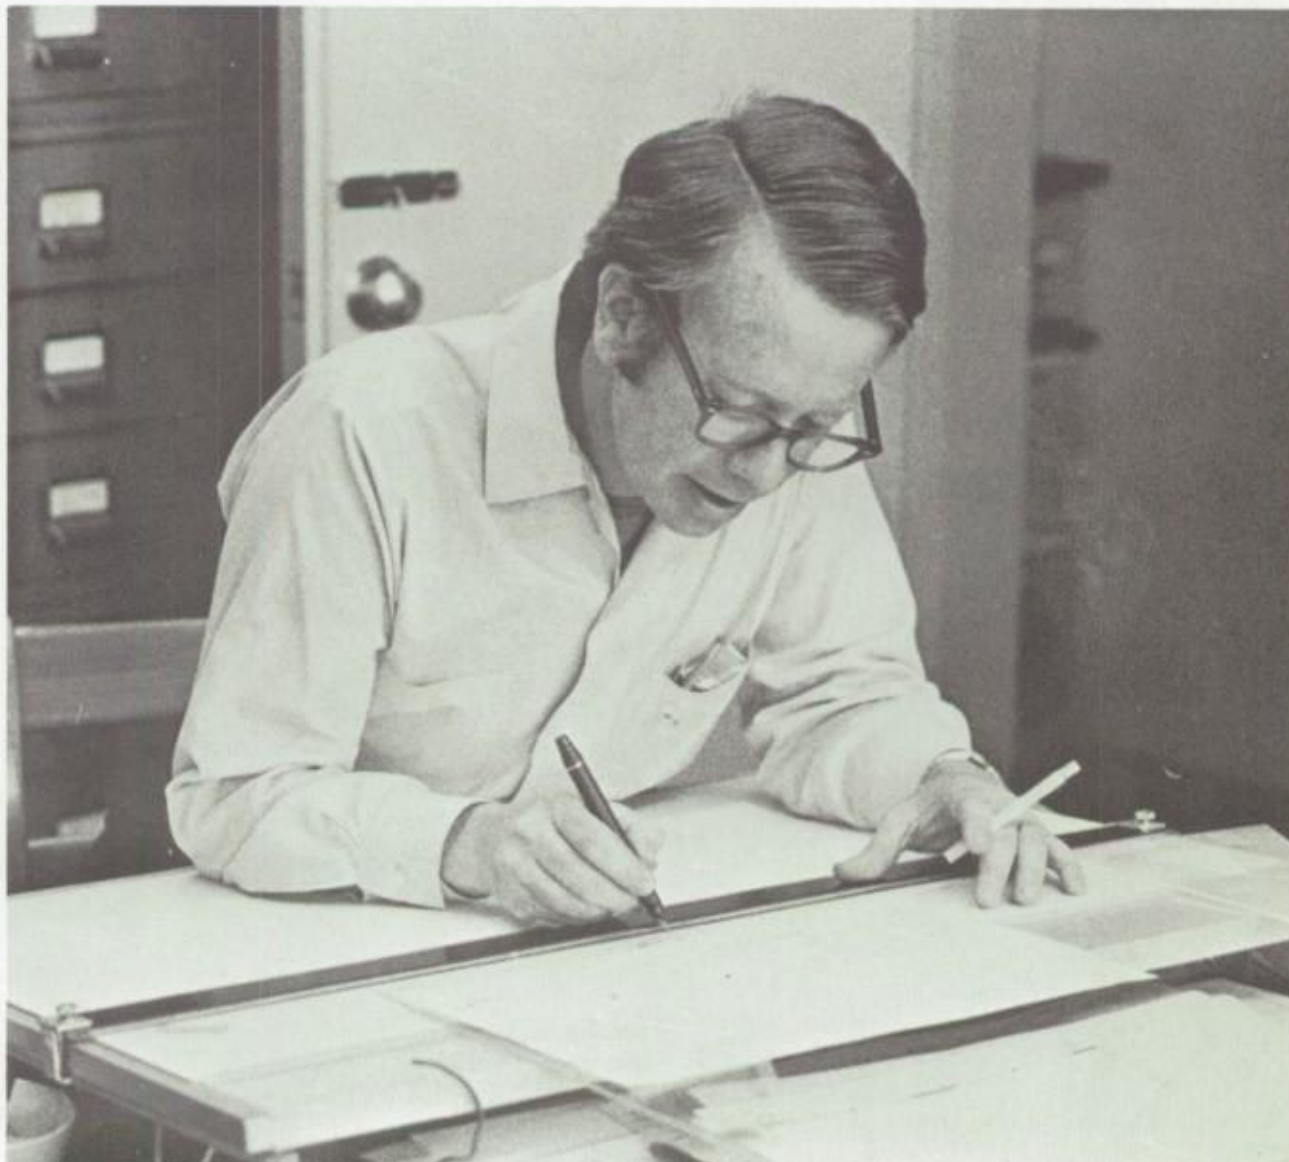

High school orientation, which is required of all sophomores, was taught for the first time this year. Divided into five segments, this program introduces the sophomores to every facet of community and school life.

The darkroom at Myers Park has been enlarged and is now the largest and best equipped high school darkroom in the state. In addition to the extensive photography classes offered for boys, a class for girls was also included this year.

For the first time, Myers Park offers a course designed to meet the needs of high school students with special learning requirements. This new curriculum, called the Resources Program, concentrates on activities related to occupations and daily living.

Photography instructor, Mr. Les Browne, takes time out from his delegated duties in the darkroom to lend the MUSTANG staff a helping hand in the layout department.

"Hup, two, three, four. Hup, two, three, four. Left . . ., left . . ., left, right, left . . ., left . . ., left . . ., left, right, left." These military-sounding words may give you the impression that the National Guard is raiding Myers Park, but these are the sounds of the newly organized Naval Junior Reserve Officers Training Corp. Along with the military talk, arrived the military look, as first described by many as, "those weird guys in khaki uniforms." After a year of self-consciousness these NJROTC boys have become proud of their uniforms and have been well-accepted at Myers Park.

In dress blues, NJROTC cadets Conrad, Robbins, McKinnon, Barnes, Cherry and McNeil form the color guard for the opening ceremony of a Mustang basketball game.

Just as students are arriving to school, the NJROTC color guard is raising Old Glory for all to see.

Three-Four-Hup-Two-Three-Four-Hup-Two-Three-Four-Hup . . .

The NJROTC program gives boys interested in the Navy a chance to learn the rules and regulations with a touch of Navy life. They practice drill formations, salute to arms, and with this experience they are offered a better position with a career in the Navy.

The NJROTC program was organized because an interest was shown to have a program like this at Myers Park. They have performed at special football games, were the color guards during home basketball games, and started the project of picking up the attendance reports.

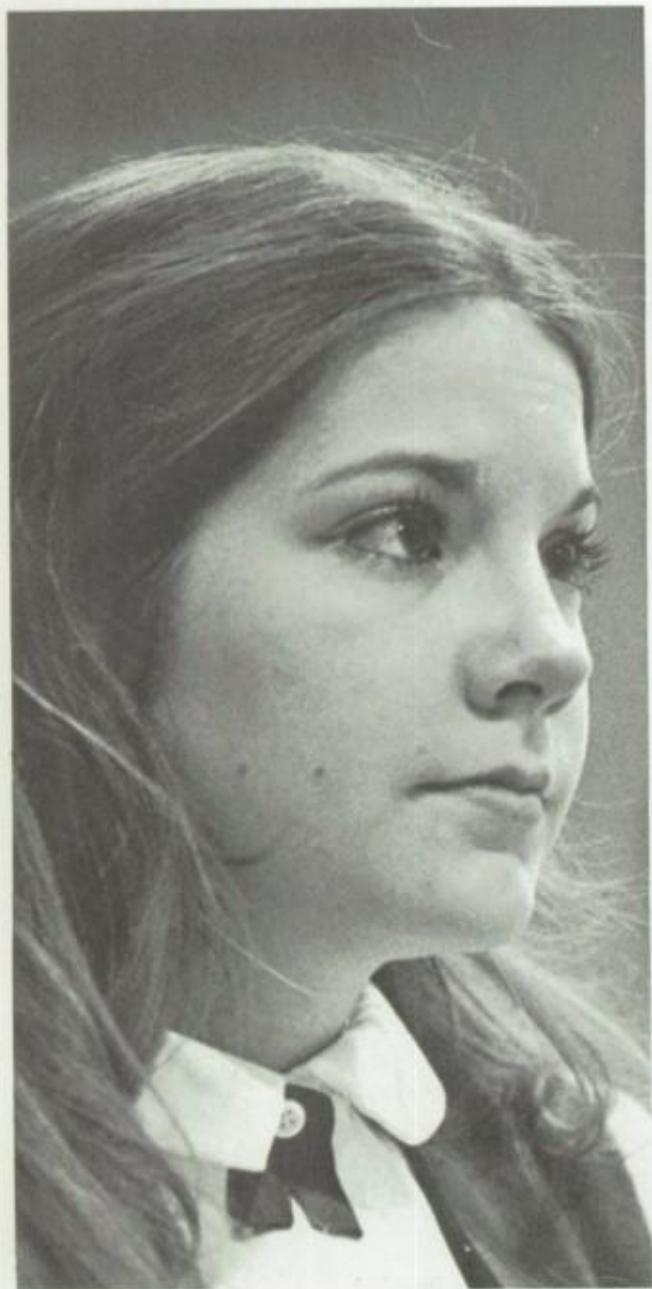

In the classroom, cadets Tom Cruttenden, Shovine McGinnis, Russell Slipper, Mike Murphy, John Frazier, Charles Sloan, Bruce Chapman and Ronald Smith learn the operations of Navy ships.

Nine months of learning military procedures and marching was climaxed by the Naval Junior ROTC assembly. At this time, outstanding cadets received awards for such accomplishments as maintaining an "A" average in class and for participating in the color guard for athletic events.

Student counselor;
Lazy, loafing
Senior lounge.

Mousetrap, class gift
Instigator;
Charging, changing
Big twelfth-grader.

Seldom conscious,
Speedy reader;
Banging, brisk
Committee leader.

Spending, splurging
Sophomore-dater;
Blabbing, gabbing
Announcement maker.

Dreaming, driving
Clubs, sports lister;
Soothing, smoothing
Homeroom Sister.

Questioning
Self-motivator;
Searching
Self-investigator.

Grasping, grabbing —
At reality.
A certain oneness —
Individuality.

Seniors' Committee Chairmen Direct Year's Projects

Herman Yoos and Pam Furches, Senior Banquet Committee Chairmen, displayed their planning abilities at the annual banquet.

Class of 1970

Jody McCoy, Beth Jones, Cap and Gown Committee Chairmen, take care to fit seniors in traditional robes.

Bob Weathers, and Jane Pettus, Diploma Committee Chairmen, aided in providing the sheepskin.

Bill Kennedy and Pam Williams, Graduation Exercise Committee Chairmen, made plans for the seniors commencement.

Lynne Ross joins many other Myers Park students on the lawn, basking in the warm spring sun.

On Earth Day, Sheri Ross decides to give the photographer a big smile as she is kneeling in the leaves to pick up trash on campus. Earth Day was a symbolic day set aside for stopping pollution. At MP it was enthusiastic.

Before a rehearsal for the Children's Theatre production of "The Snow Queen and the Goblin," Ann Lyon threatens with a popsicle. The Children's Theatre shows are held on Carnival Day boosting its business.

Anticipating the class bell, Megan Fortenbery accidentally lets a yawn slip.

Ollie Ballard relaxes before another big event during the course of a Myers Park track meet.

Juniors display avid interest in all facets of the Myers Park community.

The Junior Homeroom Presidents and Student Council Representatives for this year are: FIRST ROW: Estelle Griggs, Libby Rowland, Tricia McLaughlin, Jane Garrison, Christi Buchan, Ed Hawes, and Spiro Agnew; SECOND ROW: Scott Morrow, Mark Connelly, Dennis Griffin, Mark Cherry, Chip Stout, Ed Pease, and Jimmy Glasgow.

Robert McCuen Lewis
President

Being A Junior . . .

"I love it. Everything is in its place."

"It's the nice middle-of-the-road attitude."

"I had better like it. It took me long enough to get here and I think I'm gonna be here for a while."

"It's one more year."

"The school is like a big family — and the junior is the middle kid."

"Well, I'm not a scapegoat anymore. Now I can look down on someone."

"A junior? I never thought about it that way."

"The class really got together on the Jr.-Sr."

The juniors classically illustrate a class of active individuals united in their spirit and dedication.

Bob Lewis and Kitty Babcock rush to finish the ceiling decorations of streamers for the old cafeteria in the last few hours before the dance.

Juniors and Seniors dance to the exciting sound of "The Rivas" featuring Portia Vaughn, a former Myers Park student.

David Warren silently meditates before the game to gain the confidence needed to perform well.

The everyday routine of waiting in line, letting friends up, buying your food, walking to your best friend's table, and finally eating. Is it worth it? For chocolate on our donuts, you bet!

Robin Lee and Judy Bates spend an afternoon at two major sports — baseball and boys. Typically sophomore.

If it means getting out of English class, then it's not too hard to smile for photographer Mr. Renfroe.

Class generally is not very amusing, but Robert Rogers and Beth Polikoff make the best of the situation.

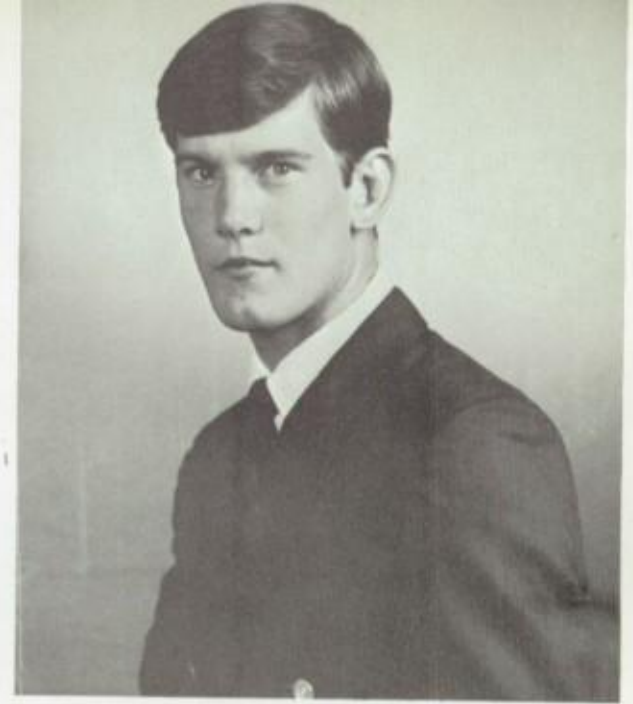

New sophomores have become actively involved in life at Myers Park High School.

Being a Sophomore...

"Man, I was scared."

"I was afraid of the cafeteria at first. I would get a bag of potato chips and sit under a tree with my boyfriend."

"I know it's stupid but I got lost in LA on the first day!"

"It's fun."

"Not much!"

"It's really the same as being in the ninth grade."

"I feel more immature than the seniors."

"I just love being a sophomore girl but I'd hate to be a sophomore boy."

The sophomores have transformed their early apprehensions and blind hope into experience and identity.

Win or lose, sophomores Lee, Estes, McAllister, Osborne, Wallace, Todd, Powers, Laws, Burwell, Ross, Donald, and Graham enthusiastically support the Mustangs.

Rosalind Banbury shows Sophomore Chris Pittman that make-up is a necessary part of the drama department arena production of DAVID AND LISA.

1970 Student Council

This year's hardworking Student Council sponsored a variety of activities and reached many major decisions. After several meetings of debate and discussion, our council showed much for their efforts.

In the fall of the year, the Council aided with the planning of back-to-school night. The members sponsored and sold tickets for the "Show Biz Revue." At Thanksgiving the Council organized the contributions of food for twelve needy families. The Council also planned a victory dance which was held after a basketball game.

One of the highlights of the year was the passing of a measure to change the dress code. Girls were finally allowed to Different facial expressions are evident when the representatives address the Student Council officers and their advisor, Mr. Les Browne. To be a Student Council officer involves much hard work.

Collecting homeroom contributions of Thanksgiving food are Lynn Simons and David Harris.

Tommy Sykes voices his opinions to the Student Council as his fellow representatives attentively listen to his long list of policy proposals. Through voices of representatives come many profitable alterations.

Mackey Allen and Pike Jones are busy selling tickets for the fabulous SHOW BIZ REVUE to a Mustang herd. This is one of the many successful Student Council projects.

In a lighter moment our Student Council officers enjoy spring fever and drop their tedious duties.

wear slacks to school! The Constitutional Revision Committee was organized to alter the entire constitution with special attention given to the point system. Also, our Student Council participated in a city-wide student exchange program in order to improve relations between local high schools. Our Council felt this action would profit Myers Park, as well as other schools.

The Interclub Council worked diligently to unify Myers Park's clubs for the success of the annual Carnival. Every year the clubs contribute generously to the Interclub Council Scholarship Fund.

With true Mustang Power our Student Council unified Mustang Land!

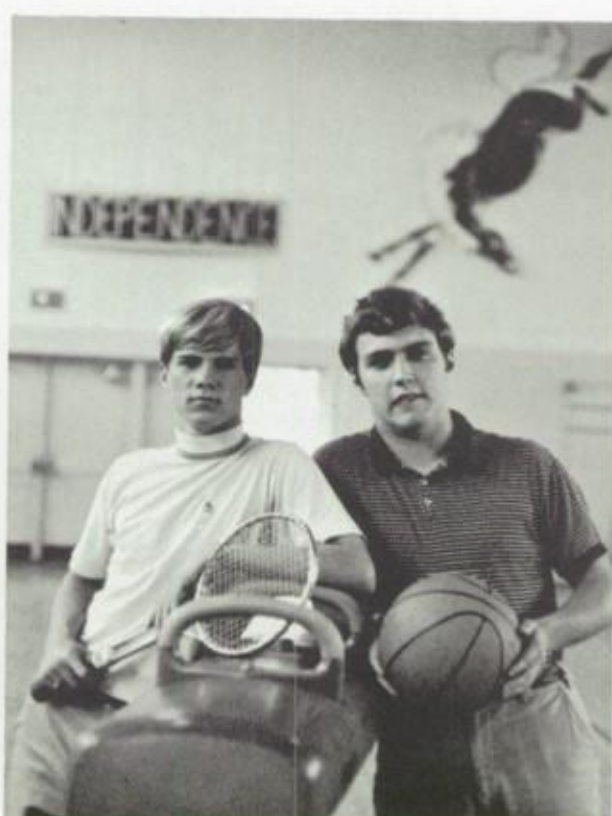

For once Secretary Gail Carson is allowed to handle the money while Vice President Jimmy Alexander is resigned to handle the books. Well, it is for only one day, Jimmy!

Citizenship Committee chairmen are Mary Vickers and Sally Anne Wise. Good work, girls!

Success with intramurals depends upon the Athletic Committee chairmen, Bill Ashley and Bobby Marion.

Discussing Constitution revisions as they walk to class are Todd Powers and Karen Schuster.

Vigorous Minds, Bodies, and Spirits of Student Council Committee

"Boys, what we need is a pocketful of miracles! Got any suggestions?" Promoting spirit on MP's campus are School Spirit Committee Chairmen, Melissa Bryant, Mark Collier, Marguerite Sewell, and Skip Dunaway.

Hall of Fame Chairmen, Connie Dunaway, Amy Gadsden, and Jody McCoy, honor alumni members.

Public Relations Chairmen Becky Lauderdale and Todd Powers sponsor our city-wide exchange program.

Providing a friendly atmosphere for foreign exchange students is the job of Marcia Hill and Gail Flynn, as Foreign Exchange Committee Chairmen.

Tye Babb and Ricky Prince help fight pollution on MP campus as House and Grounds Committee Chairmen.

Tabulating hundreds of ballots are Vicky Turner and Nancy Smith — 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, . . .

On our campus the most important groups are the hard-working committees which have special duties to perform throughout the year.

Remember welcome signs and helpful handbooks as a sophomore? Thanks to the Welcoming and Handbook—Scrapbook Committees one is able to survive the first day as a Mustang. Our bewildered exchange students need adjustment and Foreign Exchange Committee is helpful.

Dance Committee offers Homecoming, Mid-term, and Sadie Hawkins festivities where the shimmering cafeteria is a mass of bobbing heads, twisting bodies, and many smiles. What would life be without not once getting tangled in a jungle of crepe paper?

To boost morale of students, School Spirit is on hand . . . with paint, brushes,

The cheery faces and helpfulness of seniors Ann Johnson, Larry Ruddell, and Cora Pearson make up the Welcoming Committee at Myers Park.

Chairmen are Gears to Accelerate Activities

and tons of paper. Publicity keeps our students aware of coming events which swamp our campus. Didn't know about David and Lisa? You are a sleepwalker!

As a Mustang you have the right to run for office and votes are tabulated by Elections Committee. The right is yours to voice grievances to Student Opinion, and Human Relations helps settle problems. Mustangs assemble at pep rallies and thanks to Assembly Committee you may locate a seat! If sports is your thing, Athletic Committee organizes boys intramurals. Helping House and Grounds keep our campus beautiful is a Mustang's duty.

Off the campus, Mustangs are able to appear in the newspaper for recognition, thanks to Public Relations Committee. Hall of Fame each year chooses a worthy, successful Mustang of yesteryear.

"Everything's all right now, girls, cause Big Daddy is here to supervise you!" Painting those super signs are Publicity Chairmen, Mary Buker, Betsy McPhail, and Bob Weathers.

Senior Calie Jones and junior Betty Poole proudly display the school Scrapbook. They also compile the handbook for the sophomore class.

Barbara White, Chairman of the Human Relations Committee, has a mighty big task, to solve problems for Myers Park's students!

All Facets of Music Represented by MMM

Buddy Brietz and his basoon form a silhouette at the annual MMM Concert.

Myers Park has a music honor society known as the Modern Music Masters. This group holds annual spring inductions for talented students who have strived for excellence in musical fields, such as the band, the orchestra, and the choir.

By their superb concert performance, the MMM have an opportunity to prove their individual achievements with music.

Many of these very talented members will be our country's great musicians of the future. Surely, MMM are an honored credit to Myers Park.

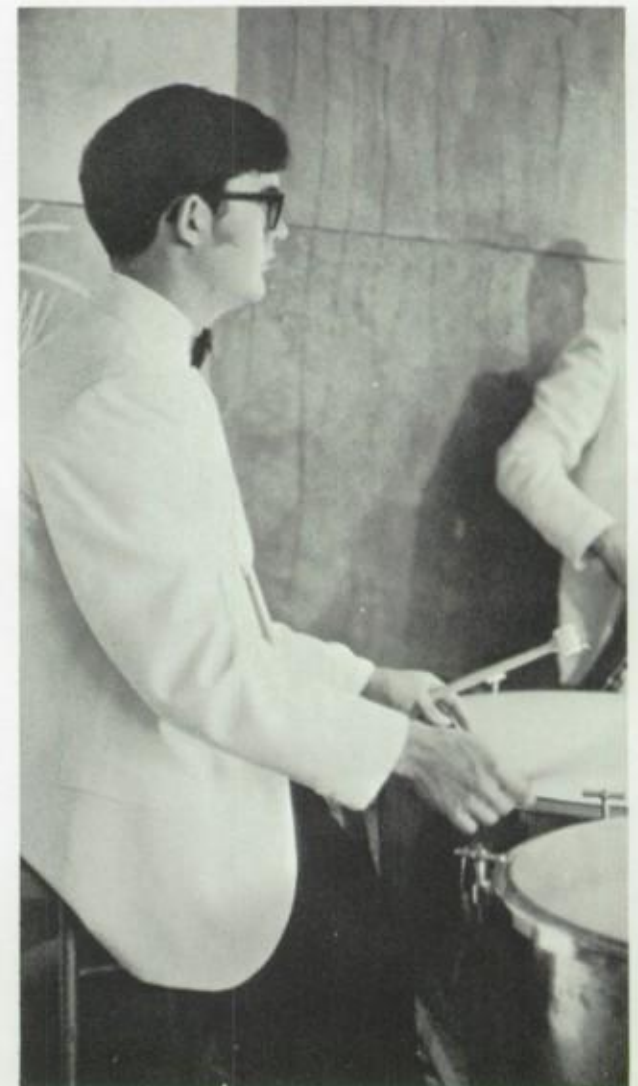

Members of the band and the orchestra have the opportunity to combine and utilize their musical talents as Modern Music Masters. Many hours of practice are required to achieve their height of perfection.

Faces with hope and discouragement enter and leave the auditorium twice a year at Myers Park as inductions are held for the National Honor Society. Members of this organization maintain a commendable scholastic average during their three years at Myers Park.

Only Seniors, who represent the top ten percent of their class, are inducted in the fall. Spring inductions welcome an additional five percent of Seniors and the top five percent of the Juniors. The NHS members strive with enthusiasm for scholarship, leadership, and service.

Happy smiles are evident as Anne Edwards is tapped in NHS by Louise Upchurch.

With yellow sashes and many books the NHS members prepare for the induction assembly and the future.

United Voices of the Choir Echo a Multitude of Magical Music

Squirting fellow choir members before a concert to calm nerves are Milt Minton and Wright Clarkson.

These individuals, who have various expressions, personalities, and dress, are a talented MP Choir!

"Hallelujah! Hallelujah!" rings through the auditorium as the choir performs their annual Christmas presentation of Handel's Hallelujah Chorus. Appearing very neat in their green robes and white stoles, the choir transforms tiny notes from confusing musical notation to beautiful songs. However, few in the audience realize the group effort, as well as the individual output, required to achieve such a magnificent performance.

Not only does the choir meet during first and second periods at school, but also the members practice on Monday nights for precise, pleasing perfection. In addition to the school performances, the choir accepts outside engagements from various churches and organizations. Our award-winning choir is one of the very best in the state.

Fran Jones assists pianist Danny Berry by turning music pages. In turn, the piano assists the choir.

The Stirring Strains of Myers Park Orchestra; How Sweet It Is!

All-State Orchestra and Workshop are: FIRST ROW: Dick, Minor, Phillips, Hutchinson, Mims, Rendleman. SECOND ROW: Burtner, Younger, Helms, McCauley, McCoy.

Timpani player, Bill Kumerow, stands ready with drum sticks in hand to sound the final echoing notes of "Hair."

At a school assembly orchestra conductor, Mr. Mims, signals the percussion section to play that special note, as all other sections blend for a particular effect.

Once again Myers Park Orchestra feigns supreme in the achievements of fine music. A fan of Bach, Corelli, or Khachaturian you may not be, but the quality of music you hear from the orchestra will make you appreciate these great musicians. Under the direction of Mr. Mims this coordinated orchestra creates this marvelous effect for you.

Months of the orchestra's intense practice have been shown at several spring concerts. At the Greensboro Orchestra Festival, the group received all "A's" in competition. Mustangs have attended a special assembly to witness the orchestra's fine results. Also a March concert further proves this group's fine talents to the public.

Several members have been honored by being in the All State Orchestra and others have been invited to attend a workshop in Chapel Hill. Myers Park is fortunate indeed to have such a skilled orchestra.

The Orchestra members are: STRINGS: Pier Protz, Concertmistress; Marcy Priester, Asst. Concertmistress; Mims, Hutchinson, Latimer, Dick, Garrison, Martin, Triantis, B. Poole, Senn, Foster, Moore, Robbins, Freeman, Kessaris, R. Poole, Helms, Casey, Younger, Phillips, Williams, Rendleman, Turner, McCoy, Minor, Shatley, Dennis, Roller, Goodwin, Ross, Gelbach, Richards, Burtner. WINDS: Beam, Bordsden, Woodruff, Mann, Tigler, Wolf, Goble, Samonds, Genes, Brietz, Caddell. BRASS: Harding, Wright, Kugler, Burns, Faulkner, Roberts, Foushee, Quick, Anglin. PERCUSSION: McCauley, Kumerow, Binnick.

"Which way do we go now?" This question is typically heard on field during the halftime show. Confusion is the enemy of a marching band.

Proudly lifting those feet when entering the field for one of the many spectacular halftime shows is the MP Marching Band.

Straight lines, perfect block formation, dazzling uniforms, and the twirling batons make up the view for the MP Stadium spectators. What the ear hears is where the real talent of the MP Band lies.

Donned with white cowboy hats are Myers Park's Pep-Band. Spirit is always high with the music of the Pep Band.

MP Band Wins The

The crowd is bubbling with excitement usually felt at any contest, but there is a tenseness, a frightened, nervous undercurrent, backstage. In a few moments, it will be time for Myers Park to perform.

Everyone is ready. The heat is stifling and the air suffocating. Uncertain smiles are frozen on faces; postures change in a few seconds. Bells on boots are desperately being silenced. The darkness intensifies, the whole atmosphere stiffens with expectancy and becomes stale with waiting. Messages of "good-luck" pass to and fro. Then the announcement comes — "Presenting the Myers Park High School Marching Band!"

They begin marching out, about seventy musicians, not including the Lettergirls, Fillies, and Majorettes. Like a basketful of green and white Easter eggs tipped over, the band spills out before three judges. No one cares about his appearance; it is too late. The tenseness disappears and the natural habits of practice, too, are over.

Music emerges from shining instruments that sway back and forth in response to their owners' movements. Uniforms have been cleaned and pressed to everyone's satisfaction. The newest addition to the uniforms are gleaming white shoes replacing delapidated spats. Spectators are blinded by reflected lights, deafened by echoed drum beats, but none notice because they are mesmerized by the performance.

It is over too quickly. What do the judges think? Was it really as good as everyone has hoped it would be? Nobody knows; no one can tell. Feet shuffle as people pile through the backstage door.
Then an exulted feeling arises, smiles turn to open mouths and yells of complete ecstasy can be heard. It had been perfect.
The performance could not have been done better!

The other bands come and go, the lights shine and the announcer again approaches the microphone. It is all over, but well worth it to our band, clutching the valuable trophy for Most Original Performance.

Vivacious Cheerleaders, Lettergirls, Majorettes, and Fillies Fire

United Mustangs find themselves swept up in a wave of school spirit and eagerness at a football game.

When the first thoughts of school begin to emerge from most people's minds, Cheerleaders, Lettergirls, Majorettes, and Fillies have already long before begun part of their school curriculum. Practice, practice, practice! Hot days, cold days, in rain or shine, any one of the aforementioned is expected to practice. Almost any student passing the Myers Park campus will at some time hear the band, and along with them, see the faithful Majorettes and Fillies marching with high steps. Cheerleaders and Lettergirls put in their share of work, too. Later in the year, JV Cheerleaders receive a chance to show off on their own. The expected result? A perfectly coordinated team.

The football team has been practicing since the end of August. Myers Park's girls are out to put on their best show. After days of tedious work, the hopeful cliché, "practice makes perfect," adds a bit of courage to everyone's heart. Excitement, worry, a tinge of fear or butterflies in the stomach attack almost everyone as if it were the first time on the field . . . and for some it is.

Blinding lights, a coolness in the air, suggestive of the coming season, optimism for "the biggest game of the year," all these are a typical part of MP spirit. The players have been introduced; the Cheerleaders are in their places and the Lettergirls below them, each in her own way contributing.

Halftime. A green and white wave of people and music flow out onto the field along with a new addition to the Myers Park Band. The fillies can be identified by their white stetsons, boots, and skirts; green vests, and billowy white satin blouses. Primarily a marching squad of sixteen girls, they add a glitter to Myers Park's spectacular halftime performances. The impeccable Majorettes, dressed in any one of a number of their dazzling uniforms, always give a marvelous show. This time, with expert handling, they chose to twirl batons of fire.

The Mustang Crowds into Radiant Flames of Spirited Green Power!

The game continues. Cheerleaders support the crowd; Lettergirls support the Cheerleaders. On and on it goes, the tension mounting with the volume. Did we win or lose? The final points decide.

Decidedly, the most important advantage of being a Cheerleader, a Lettergirl, a Majorette, or a Fillie is that each girl is able to contribute in the way she knows best to make Myers Park great.

'Spark Staff Diligently Slaves to Add Creativity and Relevancy as

Working together achieves success. Forming a confusing assembly line, major staffers and minor staffers combine their efforts and energy to count ballots for Superlatives in the Senior Issue.

Hot off the press!! 'SPARK Staffers, remember you burned hands?! #? You ah sooo wondahful!!

Mary Bilger operates the veritype, a very complicated machine which sets up the type for the MYERSPARK. Anyone care to try your hand at this monstrous machine?

While working on the newspaper, a staff member often needs more than two hands. Mary Mikell has solved the problem by using her head . . . uh, her mouth?

Once every two weeks, layouts for the next MyerSpark are rushed to the Graphics Department. The 1969 1970 'Spark is all new! It is the only high school newspaper in our entire school system to be written and published at school.

The paper is a new size and has new content. The regular issues are four pages which include editorials, general reporting, and a sports page. Many new articles such as movie and record reviews, features on outstanding Mustangs, and stories on school activities are now possible due to the procedure of publication. Different colors and sizes of type are also being experimented with to find the most effective result.

Advertisements have been greatly reduced from last year. The only paper with numerous ads is the Christmas issue. In this issue, interested students, clubs, organizations, and businesses pool their money to help publish Christmas greetings through ads in the 'Spark. Thanksgiving, Sadie Hawkins, April Fools, and Senior issues are also specially published.

Students at Myers Park are given and have accepted the opportunity to express themselves through the 'Spark. This is one of the many reasons that the 'Spark is a student newspaper. It is published by a twenty member staff which is composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Along with the staff, there is a visiting editor, Sylvia Storani, from Argentina. This year's 'Spark "is one of the biggies."

With the assistance of Mr. Clark and the Graphics Department, Myers Park students are able to have this brand new concept of the school paper. Many hands labor for each 'SPARK!

Sorry, Louise, that copy is a little late — should have been in the last issue!" Chief-Editor, Louise Upchurch and Mrs. Hinson have the ability to laugh at mistakes.

MP Photographers Snatch Frozen Moments

Enthusiasm for photography has risen to such a peak at Myers Park that cameras seem to be clicking all over campus. This year, girls in the darkroom are only one of the results of new interest shown for this fascinating course. Students who have taken photography previously under Mr. Browne are assigned to the Mustang staff, while newer students lend a valuable hand. In all, there are fifty-two students taking photography this year, and from the overwhelming interest shown, there will be many more photographers next year.

Myers Park has one of the most professional and best equipped high school photography departments in the state. Myers Park's darkroom has been expanded this year to accommodate several enlarging rooms, a developing room, a loading room, and a studio. The department did not reach completion until the end of first semester, and since then several finishing touches have been added throughout the whole year. Our photographers are able to utilize the expensive equipment available to produce special photographic effects for the Mustang and for the Spark.

Undoubtedly, these outstanding and talented photographers are Myers Park's unsung heroes and heroines.

Bob Warren Finds Cheerleaders on the sidelines more interesting than the basketball game!

Talented Annual Staff Strives to Make '70 Mustang Best Ever!

Through hard work by the staff of '68-'69, three first awards have been given to Myers Park by Columbia Scholastic Press Association, National Scholastic Press Association, and National School Yearbook Association. Members of the staff must contribute every ounce of effort in their bodies to produce a prize-winning Mustang.

Each year begins with a major job for everyone — the drawing of layouts (a plan which indicates where every picture, article, head, and caption will be, down to the sixteenth of an inch!) Student information cards must be alphabetized and typed. Money is collected from annual payments and counted and re-counted until the figures agree. Underclass pictures are photographed, and developed of the some thirteen hundred sophomores and juniors, and these pictures must be identified and alphabetized. Copy must be written, checked, and typed for every section. Have you every tried to write one hundred fifty words on a club which has had two activities the whole year? Throughout the year photographs and annual staffers are seen on campus taking pictures of the many events, clubs, organization, and exciting happenings. This is the life of a busy, frantic, worried, and exuberant annual staff!

This year a staff has been slaving in organized confusion and for what? As the Mustang is slowly wrapped up and sent to the printers each staff member has hopes that the '70 Mustang will be a first place award-winning annual.

Mrs. Elmore and Editor-in-Chief, Jane Sibley, talk over plans for the Dedication page.

Doubts are dispersed by Mrs. Elmore as she reassures us during every crisis. "But, Mrs. Elmore how in the world will that picture fit in that little tiny space?"

Susan Elrod of the major staff and Ellen Holiday of the minor staff work together as the underclassmen have their pictures taken.

The PEGASUS cover this year featured a winged horse silhouetted against a full moon.

Pegasus Again Breaks All Sales Records

Pegasus, Myers Park's literary magazine, is a composite of many things. It represents the culmination of the year's creative efforts in literature and art. Under the guidance of Mrs. Evelyn Stanton and Mr. Dean Barber, the magazine symbolizes the joint efforts of five departments: English, Art, Business, Photography, and Graphics.

The English Department and the Art Department provide the content which is a mixture of student poetry, prose, and art; the Photography Department takes the pictures of the paintings and sculpture which will appear in the magazine; the Business Department types the copy on their IBM printer; and the Graphics Department runs the magazine off. Sold this year at the Art Show, Pegasus presented an exposition of Myers Park student talent.

Hi-Y Competes in Sports With Other Clubs

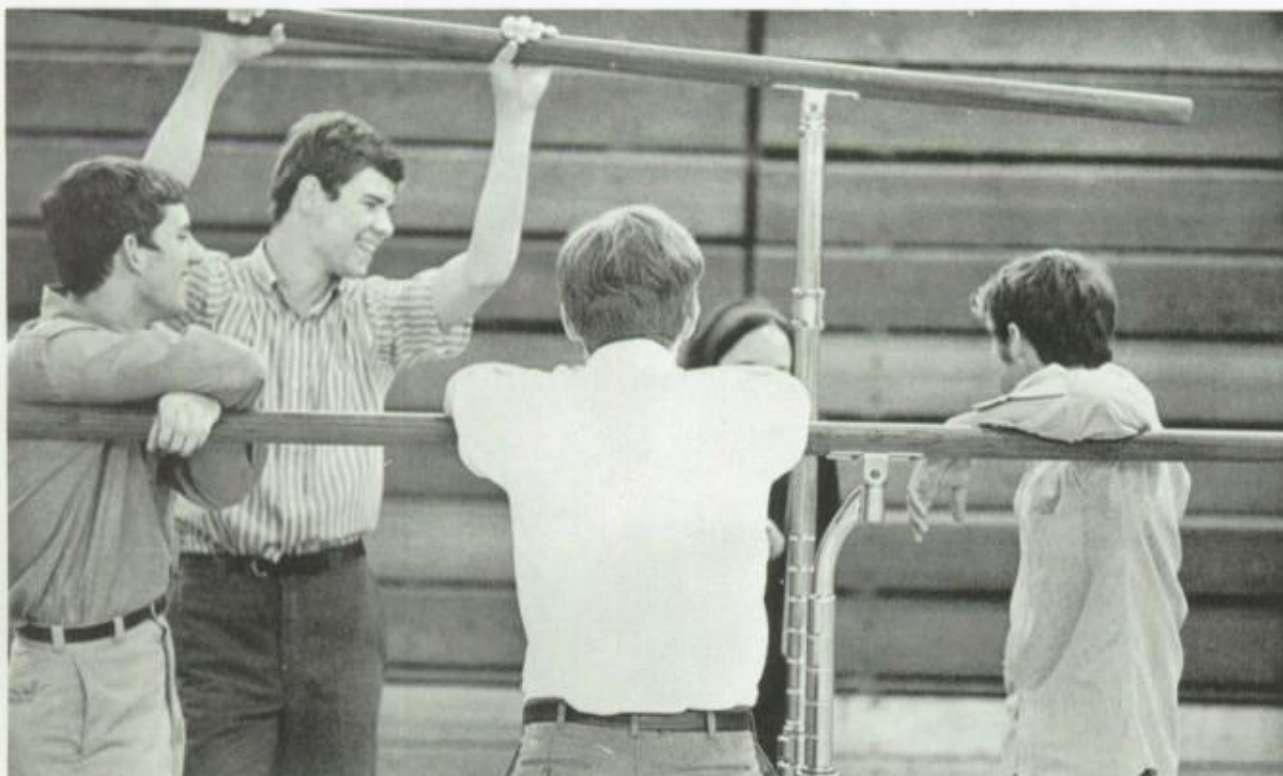

Senior Hi-Y officers are Secretary, David Mueller; Chaplain, Rock McCall; President, Chuck Galloway; Treasurer, Mackey Allen; Vice President, David Clinard.

Senior boys interested in serving their school and community can find such an opportunity by becoming a member of the Senior Hi-Y. Under the leadership of the club's officers, the Senior Hi-Y has had a very active year exemplified by participation in many of the activities which have taken place at Myers Park.

Throughout the year members have actively represented the school in inter-city basketball games at the YMCA. The Myers Park club won the tournaments and became the city champion.

A banquet honoring the coaching staff of Myers Park was held at the YMCA with Bill Curry the main speaker.

Y-Teens Hold an Easter Egg Hunt for Underprivileged Children

Y-Teens' aim is to grow in spirit and promote understanding among all people. This aim is carried out through the club's projects. Y-Teens are sponsored by the Charlotte YWCA and the members often help with YWCA city-wide projects. Junior Y-Teens sold candy in an area-wide project to send a girl to a Y-Teen national summer conference. They also work throughout the city in the Day Care Centers.

Y-Teens have always been active in helping the school. Members may be seen cleaning up the school buildings and weeding the grounds. Several meetings a month are spent working on key chains which are sold at the spring carnival.

Working in the community is another active part of Y-Teen life. The Junior Y-Teens made tray favors for the Community Hospital during Christmas and held an Easter egg hunt for underprivileged children after school. The senior Y-Teens made valentines for the soldiers in Vietnam. They also push patients to chapel at Memorial Hospital as a weekly project.

Y-Teens' meetings are varied and always interesting. Sometimes, members work on projects or plan upcoming trips. Often, there are outside speakers who come, lead discussions, and answer questions on different interest areas. Speakers this year included such diverse areas of discussions as Biafra, college boards, and national conferences.

Y-Teens serves by providing a place for all girls who want to make a contribution to school and community by serving others.

Senior Y-Teen officers are Vice-President, Susan Madison; Secretary, Martha Mickle; Treasurer, Judy Haubenreiser; President, Mary Vickers.

Jr. Y-Teens tried to raise money and school interest in their club by making and selling key chains.

Myers Park's Interact Club Contributes to the Aquarian Youth-In

Randy Long releases frustrations at the psychologically oriented Interact car bash.

The idea of service to the school and community is a very important one. The Interact Club of Myers Park is an organization which provides the opportunity to serve. The Interact motto, "Service above Self," is fulfilled not only in school projects and activities, but also in community work and international projects under the guidance of their sponsor, the Charlotte Rotary Club.

Interact's many community projects include tutoring weekly at Bethlehem Center, taking groups of children to the wrestling matches, and to the Law Building to learn the workings of government. Christmas, the club conducted a used-toy drive. In February, Interact joined with other Interact clubs of Charlotte to produce the Aquarian Youth-In, a city-wide talent show in Ovens Auditorium.

On an international level, the club sends letters to soldiers in Vietnam and sponsors a Foreign Exchange Banquet in the school cafeteria.

Interact members can also be seen around the campus working on their many school projects. The club gave out free basketball programs at home games, made calendars featuring MP coeds, staged the French plays, planted over $200.00 worth of shrubs and trees on campus, ushered at school plays and, as an all-year project, pledged to help keep the campus clean.

Ambassador Civinettes Find Service to Others a Rewarding Pastime

For a Myers Park girl, GAC can be an important part of school life. As the oldest of the four service clubs, GAC provides its members with an atmosphere of friendship and harmony. The GAC motto, "Duty makes us do things well; love makes us do them beautifully," is exemplified by the spirit and hard work injected into each thing they accomplish.

Members sold stuffed Mustang dolls, painted the gym, and held a teachers' hobo banquet. The Ambassador idea of service continues beyond the school into the community. Their projects include pushing the cheer cart at Memorial Hospital, tutoring children, working at the rehabilitation hospital, and bowling with retarded children.

Energetic Key Club and Keyettes Sing Carols, Decorate for Sadie

Scott Wilder and Robert Cunningham try their luck during the Carnival at the Key Club Frisbee Toss. It looks as if Robert's frisbee might just be on target.

Key Club and Keyettes, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, are organizations dedicated to serving the needs of Myers Park and the surrounding community.

This year, Key Club has had one of its most active seasons. In the fall members were busy with student-faculty directories, those indispensable, complimentary books given each student. Other school activities included selling green spirit gloves and chartering thirteen buses for students to attend the football play-offs in Winston-Salem. Community projects include collecting for the March of Dimes and participating in a district project to clean up a lower-income section of Charlotte. The climax of the year however, was when Key Club won the Service Club of the Year award.

Keyettes also sponsored numerous projects this year. Painting the girls' bathrooms; donating Gatorade to the football, basketball, and baseball teams; and cleaning the stadium are a few of their activities. On Thanksgiving, the girls provided dinner for a needy family. Christmas meant sending cards to soldiers in Vietnam and buying presents for three welfare girls. As weekly projects, the Keyettes exercise a retarded child and help at the Sunshine Day Nursery.

The Key Club and Keyettes merged to aid in preparation for the District Key Club convention in Charlotte. At Christmas, the two service clubs joined in singing carols at local rest homes.

Together, these groups have contributed many hours time and much effort to the betterment of Myers Park High School.

Keyettes and Ambassadors teamed up to sell these little stuffed Mustangs during second semester.

Drama Department Proves that "The Play's the Thing"

May 22, Honors and Awards. This particular day proved to be a dramatic moment for the Limelighters Club as they heard the announcement, "Special Interest Club of the Year." After a year of hard, enjoyable work, members excitedly received this tribute.

Under the direction of Mr. Thomas Elmore, the Limelighters Club has carried out several successful projects at Myers Park. Their first and major project for the school was the Show Biz Revue. This production featured students interested in performing on stage. The Limelighters combined with the Student Council to produce a pleasing, clever show for the student body.

In November, for the benefit of the Senior Class, the Limelighters produced Mouse-

For the first time in Myers Park history, a drama production was sold out for Friday AND Saturday nights in pre-performance sales.

trap, a proscenium production full of mystery and intrigue. As their community project, Limelighters joined with Children's Theatre to create the fantasy of Snow Queen and the Goblin for the 4500 children who attend Children's Theatre shows. Aside from their projects, Limelighters hold meetings and workshops to prepare club members for working with productions.

Troupe 780 of the National Thespian Society at Myers Park is part of a national organization devoted to the advancement of dramatic arts in the secondary schools. Membership is exclusive to those who have shown "meritorious participation in plays and the technical aspects of the theatre." Thespian membership is the highest honor that can be earned in high school dramatics. This year the Thespians presented an original play by Susan Elrod. The play, "A Tree Grows in Razzle-Dazzle," was a farcical comedy in one act and was staged at the Forest Theatre during the Festival-in-the-Park. During the second semester, the Thespian society presented their arena production, David and Lisa. The play, chosen for its relevancy to contemporary youth, was, for the first time in Myers Park history, sold out for all weekend performances on Friday morning.

As a member of Limelighters or Thespians, a student can discover how much more there is to the theatre than what the audience sees.

Je T'Aime—le Thème de Club Francais

"Parlez-vous Francais?" If you can answer this question with "Je pense," you can succeed in the French Club. The object of the club is to promote interest in France and her culture. A typical Myers Park school year is marked by many French Club events such as the French Play and the French Banquet. At one meeting Clay Gatewood shared his experiences while working in France as a summer camp counselor. Short sheeting is just as popular there, it seems. At another meeting, an exchange student brought French cooking for the members to taste. Unfortunately, the food did not improve pronunciation at all! But, as even non-French Club members know, "C'est la vie!"

John Dorrier waits for his meal at the Open Kitchen during the French Club Banquet.

Bill Lenfesty turns on his well-known grin at the annual French Club Banquet.

In the French Club Play, LA FARCE de CUIVIER, Bill Barnes explains to Rebecca Hostettler that the list she gave him does not include pulling her out of a tub of water.

Tim Martin pledges his devotion to his beloved bottle in the French Play "Le Medecin malgre lui."

Louise Upchurch gives her entire concentration to the activities at a meeting of the French Club.

Pier Protz, Carole Tharp, Herman Yoos, Jane Sibley, and Brent McKnight sing their own version of "Michelle" to the audience of the French Plays during the intermission.

El Club de Español Recibio Nuevos Miembros Durante Este Año

"El Casino" was the Spanish Club project for the spring Carnival. Here, an unidentified gaucho attendant talks with two prospective gamblers.

The United States is bordered by only two countries. To the north there is Canada; to the south there is Mexico. Here, and all the way down our hemisphere to "Tierra del Fuego" in South America, Spanish is the predominant language. Consequently, Spanish is one of the most popular languages offered at Myers Park. Each month, the Spanish Club meets to hear guest speakers from such places as Chile, Argentina, and Mexico. El Burrito, a local restaurant, was the scene for the Spanish Club "fiesta" this year. Members were served authentic Spanish food, such as tortillas and tacos. To the student taking Spanish at Myers Park, the Spanish Club provides enjoyable supplement to his studies.

Die Leute, die Deutsch Sprechen Konnen, Sind im Deutschen Klub

The German Club is one of the many language interest clubs Myers Park offers the student. It is also the newest because German itself has only been offered at Myers Park for four years. Fledgling sophomores who have switched from the soft, smooth sounds of Spanish and French to the guttural sounds of German are often interested in discovering more about "Deutschland" than is offered in the classroom. To satisfy this interest, they join the German Club. Learning in class that "der Rhein" flows from north to south is fine, but at a typical club meeting, it is much better to view actual slides of the scenic river. The student genuinely interested in the Nordic culture and way of life discovers many things as a German Club member.

German officers are Hank Wansker, Vice-President and Ben Foxworth, President.

Classical Club Highlights Year With Slaves Auction and Banquet

"Will it be bachelor number one, bachelor number two, or bachelor number three!?" Familiar phrases like this one rang out at Classical Club meetings this year. The event was a Roman Dating Game sponsored by one of the Latin Classes. The highlight of the club's year is Classical Week. On Monday, there is a slave auction. All new members of the club are dressed in Roman garb and sold to the highest bidder for one week. Throughout the week, the Classical Club sponsors events of interest to the school. As the closing event of the year, the Classical Club has the Banquet at which all slaves are given their freedom.

Demosthenes Would Dig Speech Department

Stemming from the speech curriculum of Myers Park High School are three separate speech-making groups. These classifications are public speaking, debate, and the National Forensic League.

Public speaking consists of categories such as original oratory, for which the speaker writes an eight-minute speech and memorizes it for delivery in a speech contest. The participant of a dramatic interpretation contest chooses a dramatic passage and interprets it with his voice. An area of public speaking for which there is not preparation is boys' and girls' extemporaneous speaking. The prospective speaker draws several topics, chooses one, and has a half hour to prepare.

The debate division of the speech program prepares a debate on a given topic for presentation in an area or state debate tournament. John Douglas and Brent McKnight make up the Mustang varsity debate team.

The National Forensic League consists of members of the speech department who have gained membership by earning certain numbers of points in given areas.

Our experts in rhetoric attended tournaments in Bluefield, West Virginia; High Point, North Carolina; and Columbia, South Carolina. The Mustangs won the North Carolina state tournament which was held in Charlotte.

As a final project for the year, speech students from Myers Park helped host the seven-state National Forensic League contests which were held at UNC-C.

FTA Helps Teachers Do Their Homework

Faye Hightower prepares to sell the multi-colored paper flowers that sold so well at the Carnival.

FTA members are Robinson, Keith, Hicklin, M. Shank Guarrant, Pilgrim, Watson, Browning, Hinson.

Throughout one's school years, teachers play an essential role. They act as more than instructors. Today's teacher is no longer just lecturer, but also preacher, counselor, confidant, and friend. Education is not the passive, uninvolved profession it was once depicted.

Consequently, interested Myers Park students have organized the Future Teachers of America. FTA recognizes the many facets of education. Through second semester prospective teacher trainees helped teachers with one of their hardest, most time consuming tasks — paper work.

In January the members of the FTA provided refreshments for a morning coffee break to which they invited the Myers Park faculty members.

FTA offers students the opportunities to study advantages and disadvantages of a career in the education field by providing a brief but realistic view of this profession.

Pen Pushers Change Name—Future Business Leaders of America

FBLA officers are Secretary, Ann Parker; President, Jay Armistead; Treasurer, Jane Henderson; Vice-President, Debbie Franklin.

Big business now is big business tomorrow in the United States and even at Myers Park. Everywhere we turn we are bombarded with advertisements, announcements, and job offers from big business concerns. No doubt about it, an occupation in business is one with a real future. Many students at Myers Park recognize this fact and plan to make a career in a business occupation. They join the Future Business Leaders of America. This is the national organization for all high school and college students enrolled in business subjects. Throughout the year, the FBLA is in charge of keeping all bulletin boards up to date. Another FBLA project is the selling of school stationery. In addition, they planned and held an open house and careers day for interested students.

Future Homemakers of America Give Mother-Daughter Banquet

For the girls seriously interested in practicing homemaking talents, there is a chapter of the nationally organized club, Future Homemakers of America. In FHA, emphasis is placed on fostering the development of community and home leaders. These goals are achieved by studying, discussing, and practicing the techniques involved in creating a satisfying home setting.

To tighten the tie they believe should be found between the ideal home and the community, the girls presented gifts to hospitalized children at Christmas, and in March, they held the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet. Listed with the club's other numerous activities this year was a teen-age fashion show presented in a student assembly program.

By these means, the FHA is ever striving to upgrade the homemakers' status.

VICA Encourages Students in the Future World of Business

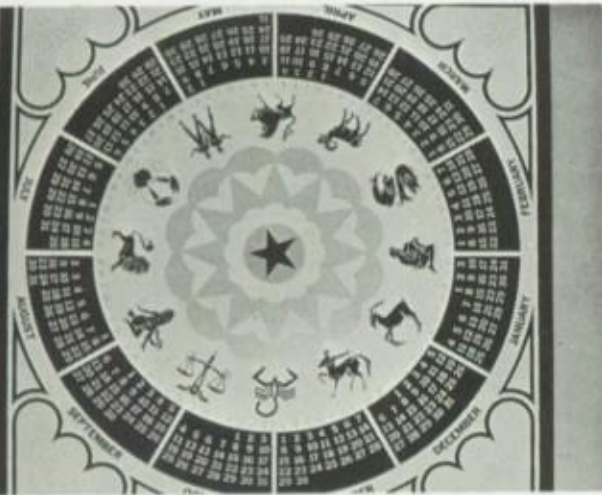

Myers Park offers a varied vocational program. Such areas as photography, headed by Mr. Les Browne; health careers, headed by Miss Sara Russell; and graphics, headed by Mr. Ray Clark; are offered to interested students.

Students enrolled in trade or industrial courses join Vocational Interest Clubs of America. Each course has its own chapter that meets separately. At the end of the year the members of the classes team together for a group project.

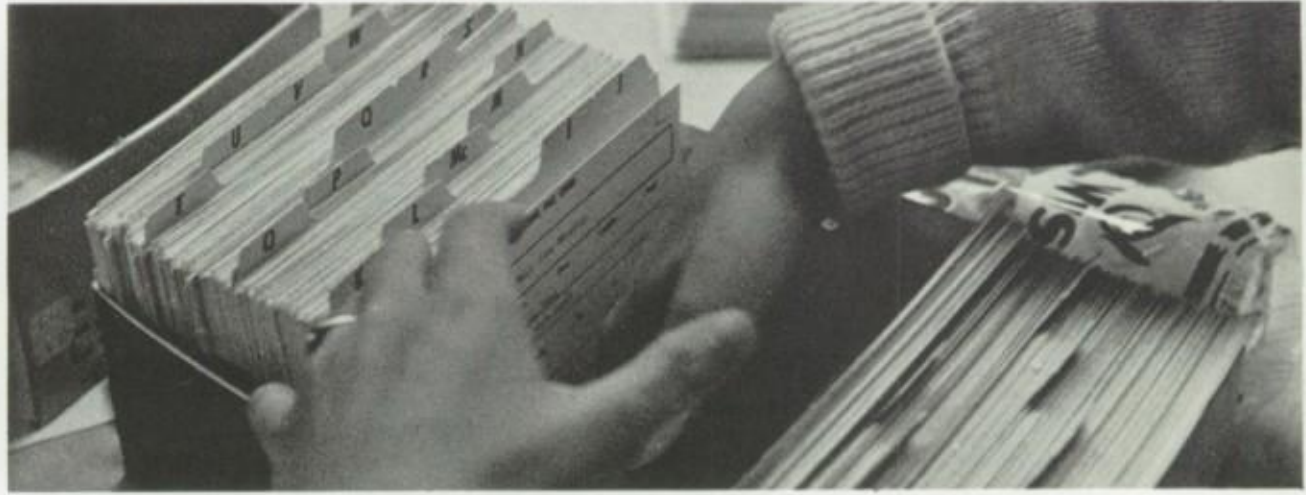

The school magazine, "Pegasus," is an example of a joint project of the photography and graphics departments. Projects of this nature serve to relate to the student the usefulness of what he has learned during the school year. Students take vocational courses such as these with the intention of using the skills in their life's work.

DE Students Attend Classes in the Morning, Work in Afternoons

The DECA showcase in SC is in constant demand by all departments. Here, the art department uses the case to display an easily recognizable project.

Distributive Education Club of America, DECA, is the largest organization in the world for students going into marketing and retailing. DECA meets in the Senior Lounge the third Friday in every month during first period. They have speakers on every phase of the business world.

In the Booth Competition of the Mecklenburg Fair, they won third place. In February, a District Leadership Conference was held during which all the DE clubs in Charlotte competed in different contests. Ruby Bechtold won the Miss DECA contest, and David Baumgardner and Cathy VerMeulen won second and third places respectively in the Student of the Year contest. In the Ad-Lay-out contest Sheldon Goforth won second place.

Mr. Chuck Richards, DECA advisor, provides strong support and eager assistance during the club's many and varied activities.

Mustang Medics Visit State Mental Hospital

Lawyer, fireman, policeman, president, doctor... These are the professions that almost everyone at one time or another wishes to enter. Some keep these dreams; some move on to others. The Mustang Medics is a club for those students who plan to join the medical profession. Interests range from psychology to X-Ray technology. As a result, speakers from every field of the medical profession lecture at meetings.

At the State Convention in Raleigh during March, sophomore Glenda Woolf was elected vice-president of the state organization. At this time, incumbent secretary Christopher Hensley of Myers Park retired from office. In late spring, Mustang Medics made a field trip to Western Carolina and Broughton Hospital.

Mustang Medic officers are Vice-President, Mary Byrd; President, Pen Garrett; Scrapbook Chairman, Margaret Johnson; Secretary, Pam Sterling.

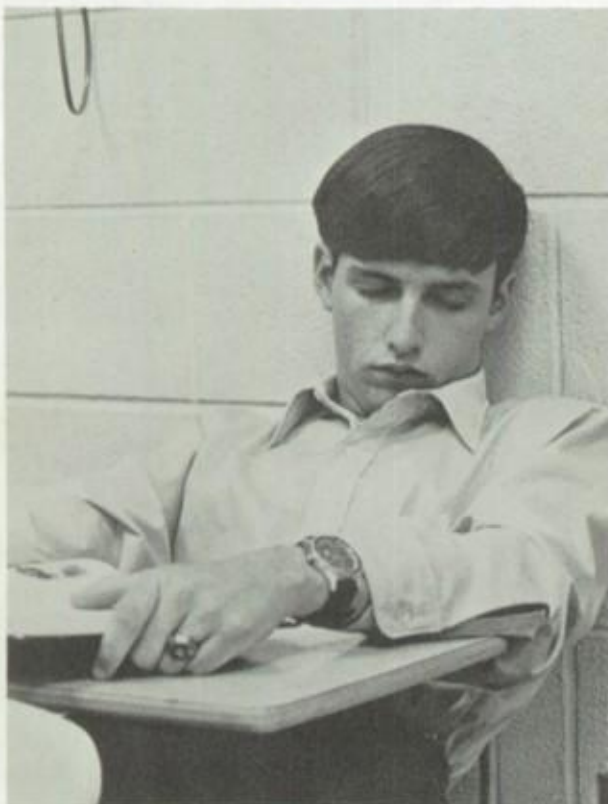

Mustang Medics sent four delegates to the Health Careers Congress in March. They are Glenda Woolf, Melanie Myers, Tim Martin, and Herman Yoos. Glenda was elected state Vice-President of Health Careers in North Carolina.

Interest in Mathematics Equals MP's Math Club

Math does not hold the same attraction for ALL students as it does for Jim Bursley.

Developing and fostering interest in all phases of mathematics is the function of the Math Club and the Mu Alpha Theta, the mathematics honor society.

During the course of the year, the officers and program chairman have arranged to have several interesting outside experts speak concerning subjects relating to the mathematical field.

In order to take part in the total school program, the Math Club members aided in the campus clean-up on Earth Day and sponsored a booth at the annual school carnival.

Through the year, interest in a particular subject such as math is always enhanced by the opportunities provided by meeting with a group who has similar interests.

Rebecca Ricketts reads a "v-e-r-r-y inter-r-resting" palm for the Carnival.

Celanese and Eastern Computer Center Welcome Engineers Club

Engineer's Club officers are George Linde, Bill Ashley, Jimmy Glasgow, Frank Altany, Mike Hipp, and Ben Griffin.

Mathematics and physics are stimulating and fascinating fields for many people. Often coupled with these interests is an interest in engineering. For such persons, there is the Engineer's Club. Working with the Charlotte Engineers Club, the Myers Park group sponsors speakers and field trips. In this way, they discover that there is more to engineering than simple hard facts. Members discover that there is also a demand for much creativity in the engineering field. During the year, field trips included the Celanese chemistry labs, Westinghouse, and Eastern's computer system. Members attended the Aerodnetics demonstration at Pope Air Force Base, the Engineering Exhibition sponsored by UNC, and the Engineer's Fair promoted by the Engineer's Council of N. C. State.

Annual Red Cross Drive Success as Usual

Being sick is half the fun if Karen Schuster helps nurse you back to health!

The Red Cross of Myers Park is an organization whose purpose is to help support the Mecklenburg chapter of the Red Cross. It does this by taking up a collection in each homeroom during the month of October. All during the fall, one can see those little white buttons with the red cross on them proclaiming, "I gave!" During Christmas, each homeroom collects food, clothing, and presents for an overseas child. This year, when Hurricane Camille hit the Gulf Coast residents, the Red Cross representatives in all of the local high schools took up money for the homeless refugees. In addition, Red Cross also serves to inform students of safety rules and proper emergency procedures. Every fourth Monday of each month, passerbys can see the club members at their annual meeting planning upcoming projects and meetings

Social Studies Club Highlights Active Year by Sponsoring Film-In

"...To increase the knowledge of the student... about things which affect him..." In these words, the president of one of the most active clubs at Myers Park states the purpose of the Social Studies Club. Throughout the year, this club provides stimulating and often controversial speakers and programs for its members. A list of speakers includes such persons as a representative of the Charlotte Draft Counseling Board and the UNCC Chairman of the Young Americans for Freedom.

One of the most well-attended meetings of the year was the one at which Marvin Sparrow, a former member of the SDS, spoke. Besides the many speakers, the Social Studies Club also had a "Film-In" for MP students in the spring.

Understanding, Key to Peace Among Nations

International Relations Club officers are President, Sonny Honey; Secretary, Kathie Garmon; Vice-President, Cliff Kirk.

The International Relations Club at Myers Park is a group of students interested in promoting better relations between countries and their people. They believe that this can be done through fellowship, understanding, and working together. Throughout the school year, the International Relations Club distinguished itself as one of the most active non-service clubs on campus. In the fall, they sponsored an assembly at which two professors from Davidson College debated "Unilateral Intervention of Major Powers into Affairs of Smaller Nations." The club also co-hosted with East High School's International Relations Club a gathering of Charlotte's foreign exchange students. Under the leadership of President Sonny Honey, the International Relations Club provided Myers Park with many speakers and programs concerning other countries.

If you're a foreign exchange student and you're a little bit homesick and you just don't know if you'll be accepted, a sign like this and the International Relations Club welcome can ease quite a few of your worries.

Working with exchange students who visit Charlotte is an aspect of International Relations work.

To Read, Investigate, Discuss, Discover . . .

Bob Williams mulls over an important point in a discussion on Plato's CRITO.

Names such as Plato, Confucius, and Schweitzer will forever be symbolic of man's most noble thoughts. Great Concepts is a meeting place for those who wish to climb to the intellectual heights great philosophers have reached. On Thursday evenings throughout the year, students meet to exchange ideas concerning great world literature. Led by Mr. Fulcher, they navigate the mazes and intricacies philosophy offers. At one meeting, a variety of subjects may be discussed which are only peripherally related to the original selection. Anything from Plato's Crito to Tolkien's Lord of the Rings may be considered. The importance of Great Concepts is that students can touch the robes of men such as Plato and Confucius and try to see the world as they saw it.

Jimmy Alexander poses a question to Mr. Fulcher during a Great Concepts discussion.

Monogram Club Leaves Alma Mater With Giant "MP" Emblem

Monogram Club is representative of every athletic team on the Myers Park Campus. The members are selected on the basis of desiring to work on the club activities, and receiving a letter in any sport.

Through the year, the club undertook various activities. Monogram helped during the football season by ushering, selling programs, and printing booster tags. Cleaning up trash and trimming grass around school was one of the club's regular duties. The most outstanding project, however, was the construction of a large plexiglass "MP" emblem that now rests on the side of the gym.

Look familiar? The Monogram Club placed this on the side of the gym, facing the stadium entrance.

Larry Ruddell, "Mr. Myers Park," stands in front of the welcome sign at the entrance of the school.

Eggs, Shaving Cream, Syrup: All Ingredients for GAA Initiation

Myers Park's Girls' Athletic Association provides opportunity for girls to participate in sports. The members develop coordination and poise by developing skills in field hockey, tennis, track, bowling, and individual sports. Membership is achieved by participating in different events.

One highlight of the year is the initiation of new members. The traditional initiation ceremony involves an onion relay race as well as other antics.

The GAA members sponsor different projects during the year. In the fall they sell programs at the football games. This year they also sponsored a booth at the Interclub Carnival. The money collected will be used to purchase sports equipment for use by the girls' athletic department.

One of the least popular GAA activities is the annual initiation of new members which includes bobbing for onions — GAA's own twist on the traditional bobbing for apples.

GAA Gives Girls A

Girls' sports are an integral part of the activities of Myers Park High School. As an outgrowth of GAA, the athletic department sponsors intramural and extramural sports.

As an extramural sport, bowling proved to be especially popular this year. The bowling team met every Monday afternoon and competed with girls from other high schools in the county. They finished the season by winning first place in the county-wide competition.

Field hockey and volleyball are two of the most popular team sports. The girls of MPHS competed with girls from seven other

With unstoppable momentum, Pike Jones (23) plows across a stunned defensive line for another touchdown. Pike's sprints, supported by an offensive line, were the winning factor in many games.

Mustang Determination Secures Berth in

The Myers Park Mustangs smashed through to fourth place in State 4A playoffs this year in a season characterized by outstanding achievement. Every game was fought with determination, and this was one of the major factors enabling the Mustangs to triumph over determined foes. Desire to win and confidence acquired through hard work and skill made the Mustangs much feared opponents.

The game with South was no indication of Mustang promise. The team slogged through rain to a disappointing loss. This loss only left the Mustangs more resolute to win.

The contest against North was a triumph for the Mustangs. Pike Jones used fantastic speed to accomplish 191 yards, while Mark Fellers' passing sealed North's defeat.

The Wildcats of Garinger fared badly at the hands of the Mustangs. At half time, Pike Jones had rushed 104 yards. Fullback John Davis scored three touchdowns in a brilliant performance.

Rickey Wrenn became the first Mustang to block two punts in one game as the team buried Olympic 21-6. John Thompson scored a touchdown on another blocked kick in a determined defensive effort.

The Green Wave of Ashley evaporated under the dogged onslaught of Mustang strategy. Myers Park shut out Ashley under the skillful defense of John Davis, Mike Agresta, and Bob Marion. Myers Park next demolished Harding on runs by Davis and Jones.

Mustang power suffered a setback against East. However, the cool accuracy of Fellers' passing was a tribute to his skill, while the entire team displayed solid effort. With little-dampened spirits, the team roared to a 20-13 victory over Independence.

Opposing defensive maneuvers prove ineffective as Mark Fellers (12) and Pike Jones (23) run their pattern with the skill and agility of pros.

Myers Park's offensive line opens up a hole for a decisive touchdown in the state playoff with Canton. The Mustangs won to advance to the state semifinals.

The climax of conference play came when the Mustangs faced West, their most menacing opponent. A fourth quarter stampede by Davis, combined with quick defensive breakthroughs by George Herron, helped the Mustang cause. When the dust of battle cleared, the scoreboard read 7-7, and the Mustangs advanced to the playoffs.

In the first game of state playoffs, Myers Park's speed triumphed over size as Pisgah went down to defeat. Davis' superb running and a valiant defensive effort decided the game.

The tide of Mustang Power was finally stemmed by cold weather. A numbing cold snap hurt the passing game, although the defensive effort was strong against Atkins.

Rick Osborne (21) proves too fast for his trailing opponents as he returns a punt to insure his teammates a good field position for scoring. Osborne was a versatile defensive player as well as punt returner.

Jones (23) runs the ball in his typical fashion-free of any tacklers. He is assisted by John Roland (50).

Coach Purcell advises Osborne (21) against Canton.

Myers Park fullback Pike Jones (23) evades the Olympic defensive line with a combination of speed and footwork behind the capable blocking of halfback John Davis (40) and Les Todd (53).

Individual Endeavors

The Myers Park football squad outscored its opponents by a 107 point margin of 240-133. This fact is a tribute to the team cooperation and extraordinary individual endeavor which characterized the Mustangs in each contest.

Myers Park's top scorer was John Davis, who overcame a lack of height and weight with courage and skill to achieve 102 points in 11 games. Davis' determination and speed enabled him to thwart the great majority of tacklers. In the West game, he plowed through the opponent's entire defensive line to score. The towering Pisgah defenders were left bewildered as they watched the agile Davis streak away for four touchdowns. Davis' efforts were a triumph of individual determination; and he was awarded the title of Most Valuable Player in Mecklenburg County.

Pike Jones covered more territory than any other teammate, achieving a record of 990 yards in the season. Jones earned a well-deserved reputation for his power and speed. Against a stubborn Independence defense, for example, Jones broke through for a stunning 63-yard victory run.

Doug Austin and Larry Ruddel performed admirably as receivers. Austin was a dependable runner, while Ruddel played brilliantly in crucial situations.

Mark Fellers coordinated the team punch as quarter back. He established an individual record in the finest Mustang tradition, being a determined runner as well as passer. His collectedness in uphill fights won him much renown.

Defense certainly contributed much to the Mustang record. Strong tacklers such as Hank Barge and stalwart linemen like John Thompson and Ikey Smith held powerful offensive teams to few points.

The Myers Park offensive squad demonstrates its prowess as aggressive halfback John Davis (40) evades the opponent's defense to score. Davis was the most valuable player and leading scorer.

With the support of the line in the foreground, Fellers (12) runs the ball in an effective pattern against East. The running of Davis (40) was instrumental in scoring the four Mustang touchdowns.

Jones (23) rounds the end, speeding away from three Eagle tacklers. The East line could not contain Jones.

A determined Myers Park offensive line contains rushers as Jimmy Mattox (1) unleashes a long pass down field. The line became much stronger during the season as the offense began to punch harder.

Resolute Ponies Gain

Junior Varsity football at Myers Park rose to new levels of importance this year. Although they had a losing record, the Ponies learned a most important lesson — the lesson of unity. The first of the season showed the effects of different teams trying to combine, and it was not until the end of the season that the Ponies really proved how well they could play together. Once they molded into a productive group, the Ponies became very hard to beat. The secret to their strength was the team effort to win and to produce players for next year's varsity team.

Many individual performances were registered this year. Defense again contributed to a winning spirit. The defensive secondary showed brilliance in their performances along with a strong defensive line. The line allowed only a small average of points to be scored, proving their determination and capabilities. The offensive team had trouble in organization because many players were being moved to and from the Varsity. Jimmy Mattox (1) hurls a pass uncontested as his offensive line provides firm support. Mattox showed great improvement during the season, and he will be a varsity quarterback next season.

Brantley (21) struggles free from tacklers as he advances the Mustang position down the field. He is aided by Wade (45). Both players demonstrated much capability for future varsity action.

Steve Collins employs fancy footwork and natural agility in the close contest with East Mecklenburg. Collins was a co-captain of the Myers Park squad, and he was very effective in such situations.

Tough Team Effort

Myers Park's soccer squad went through a period of rebuilding and testing this year. Coach Floyd Campbell carried out many alterations designed to discover where each member could best support the team effort. Since most of the players were new to the squad, the experimentation became more difficult. It sometimes produced temporary discouragement.

Many players distinguished themselves during various games of the season, and some played in several different positions. Allan Upchurch and Neil Elam served as the resolute goalies who held the opposition in many exciting climaxes. Eugene Daniel and Todd Powers advanced the Mustang cause as halfbacks, along with Ridge Dewitt and Donnie Turner. Inners John Daniel, David Ratcliffe, Ray Owens, and Steve Nodell gained valuable experience in their positions. They will be returning to lend their experience in next year's victories. Nodell also served as center forward, and Owens helped in some games as wing. Fullbacks Bill Price and Chip Stout gave support to the team effort. Steve Pourlos and Steve Collins led the 'Stangs as co-captains.

Ed Lancaster was possibly the most versatile overall utility man. He distinguished himself in nearly every position and contributed to a strong team effort.

The 'Stangs displayed their promise in three exceptional games. The first game with South was fought with vigor by both squads. The second contest with Independence was lost only after a hard overtime battle. East edged the Mustangs on an inconclusive decision in tournament play.

Hal Peacock, an athlete of multiple talents, carries the baton for the Mustangs in a relay.

With outstanding work and dedication, the Mustang Harriers swept the conference and the state, claiming a well-deserved title of first in North Carolina for the fourth straight year. The determination of individuals to excel on this highly competitive squad set an example for all teams. Coach Bill Cloaninger directed the runners in his usual able manner, starting the team in August for many hours of practice and wind building.

Mike Caldwell led the team with brilliant time records. He came in first in many conference meets. Caldwell was an inspiring teammate whose name became synonymous to the squad with skill, endurance, and the desire to win.

Caldwell was not without competition. Along with him, Gary Gilbert, Ricky Prince, Jim Chapman, Tom Barringer, John Brown, Ned Dietler, and David Gilbert became the core of the team, and they contributed 100 percent of their capability.

The first meet, held at East Mecklenburg, was a triumph for the 'Stangs, with Caldwell, (Gary) Gilbert, Brown, Prince, and Chapman leading the team. The thirty-two points they scored were twenty points in front of the closest opponent.

Myers Park's striders next overwhelmed their opponents at West Mecklenburg, scoring a perfect fifteen points. Eight of the top ten runners wore the green and white. The South and Harding meets ran in much the same fashion, and the district meet was won with Pony runners in second, fifth, seventh, eleventh, and fourteenth places.

After taking the Wake Forest Invitational Meet, the Harriers finished a perfect season by winning the state championship.

Charlie Akers completely controls his opponent. Akers was renowned for his aggressive will to win.

Ray Watts, a promising sophomore wrestler, demonstrates his superior knowledge of controlling moves as he works for a pin. Already a varsity wrestler, Watts will be a strong winner next year.

Myers Park wrestlers upheld their reputation as tough, skillful, and dedicated individuals in every match this year. Other teams challenged and sometimes slightly outscored the Mustangs, but no team ever walked away with victory without realizing the innate power and capability of each Mustang wrestler. Alan Austin and Charlie Akers led the team in conference and state competition. This is a credit to themselves, to Coach Peel, and to the team as a whole.

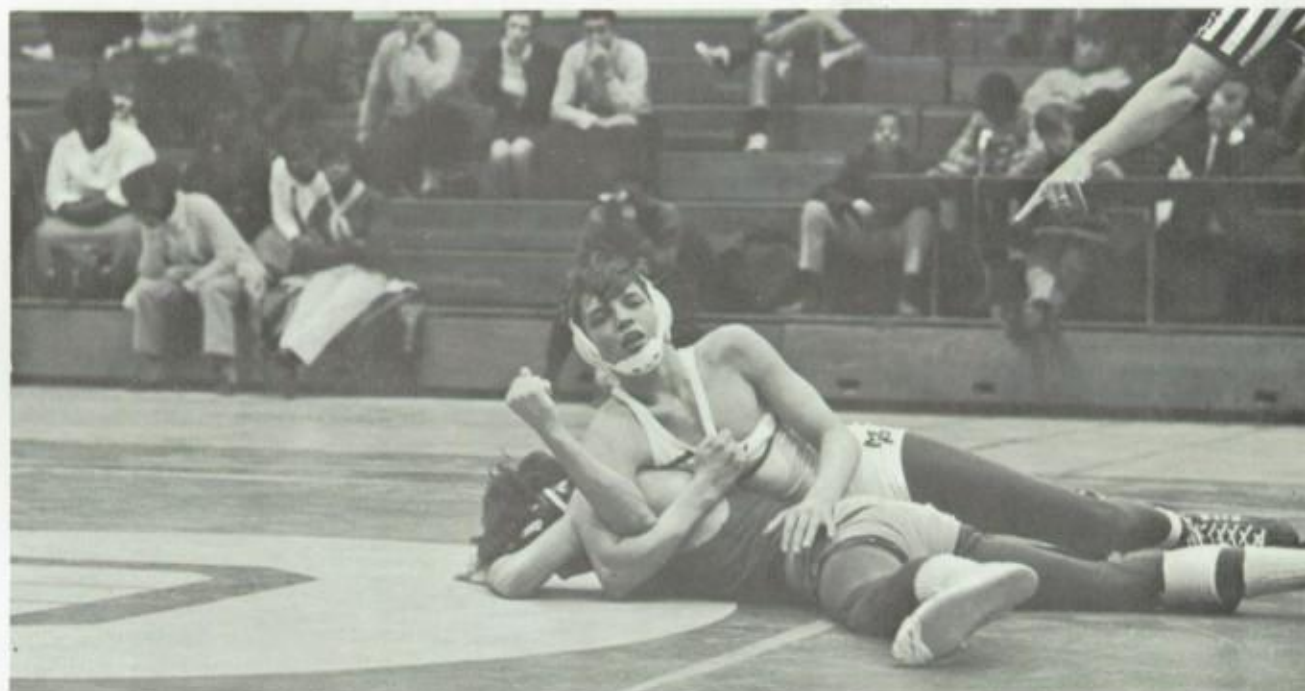

Myers Park's grapplers blasted Ashley in a furious destruction for the opening match. They faced the ominous threat of Independence with confidence and overpowered the Patriots in a well-fought match. South Mecklenburg and Harding were easy prey. East's wrestlers set the Ponies back somewhat, although each match was closely contested.

Injuries and various mishaps forced the fighting 'Stangs to drop the next two matches against Greensboro Smith and West Lincoln, but they returned to claim a well-deserved second place in the East Invitational Tournament. After crushing North, the Mustangs were defeated by Garinger and Olympic.

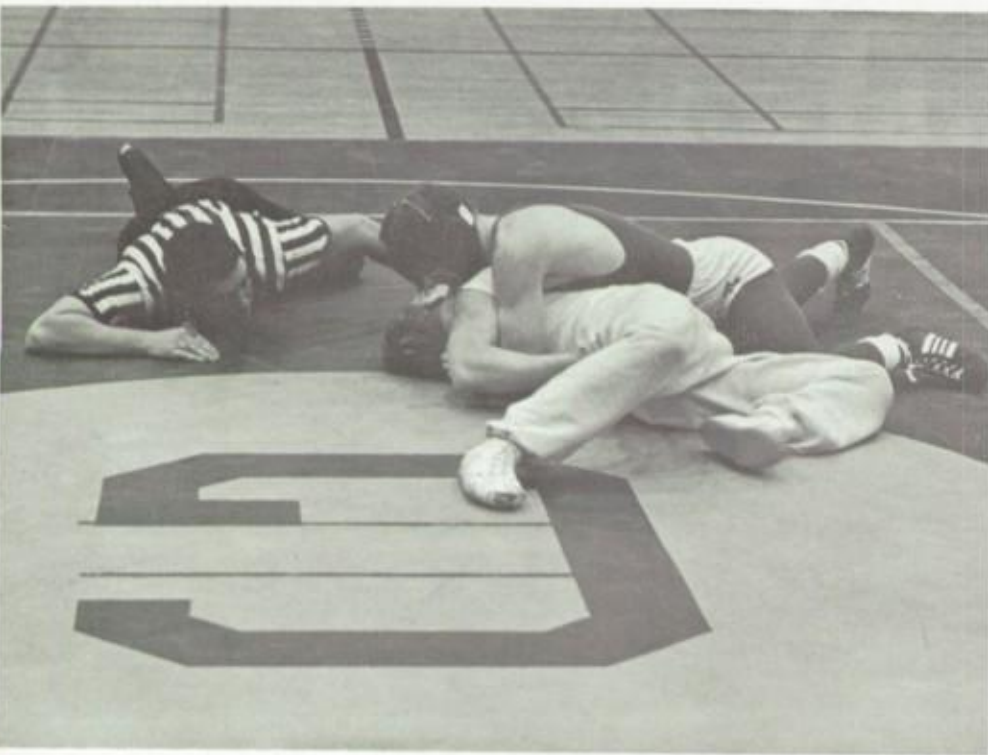

One of the great characteristics of the team was their determination to come back and win after being defeated. This was never more true than the contest following the Olympic match, in which the 'Stangs overpowered Hunter Huss. This determination carried over into the West match which, although lost in points, was battled with true Mustang spirit.

In the district meet, Charlie Akers, Alan Austin, Randy Kabrick, and Ikey Smith advanced the Mustang cause with great success.

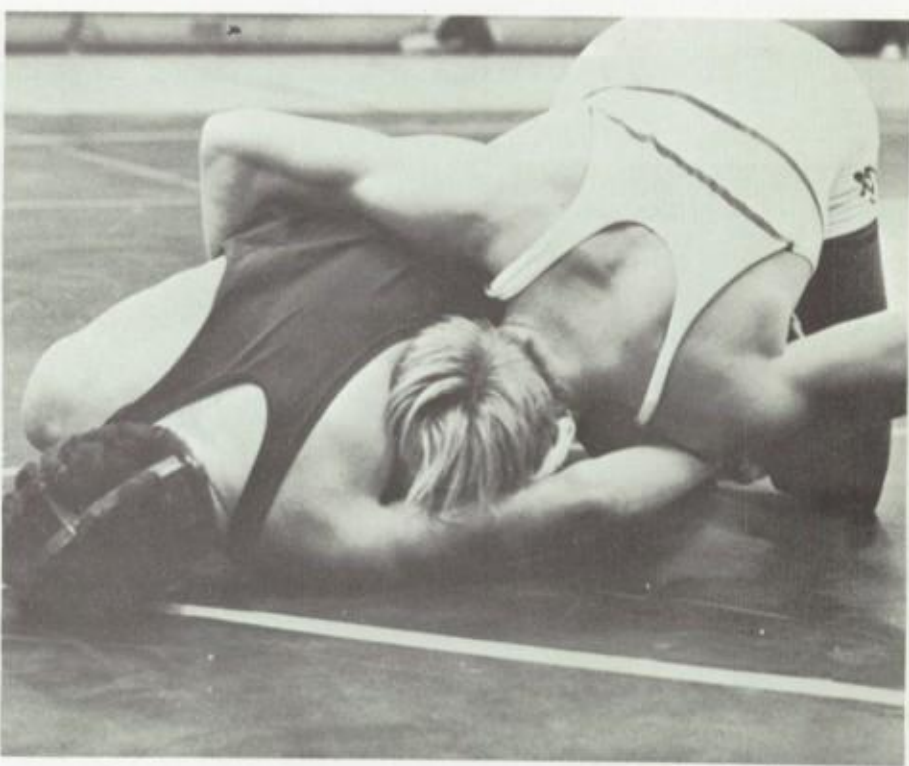

Senior Randy Kabrick completes his destruction of a luckless opponent.

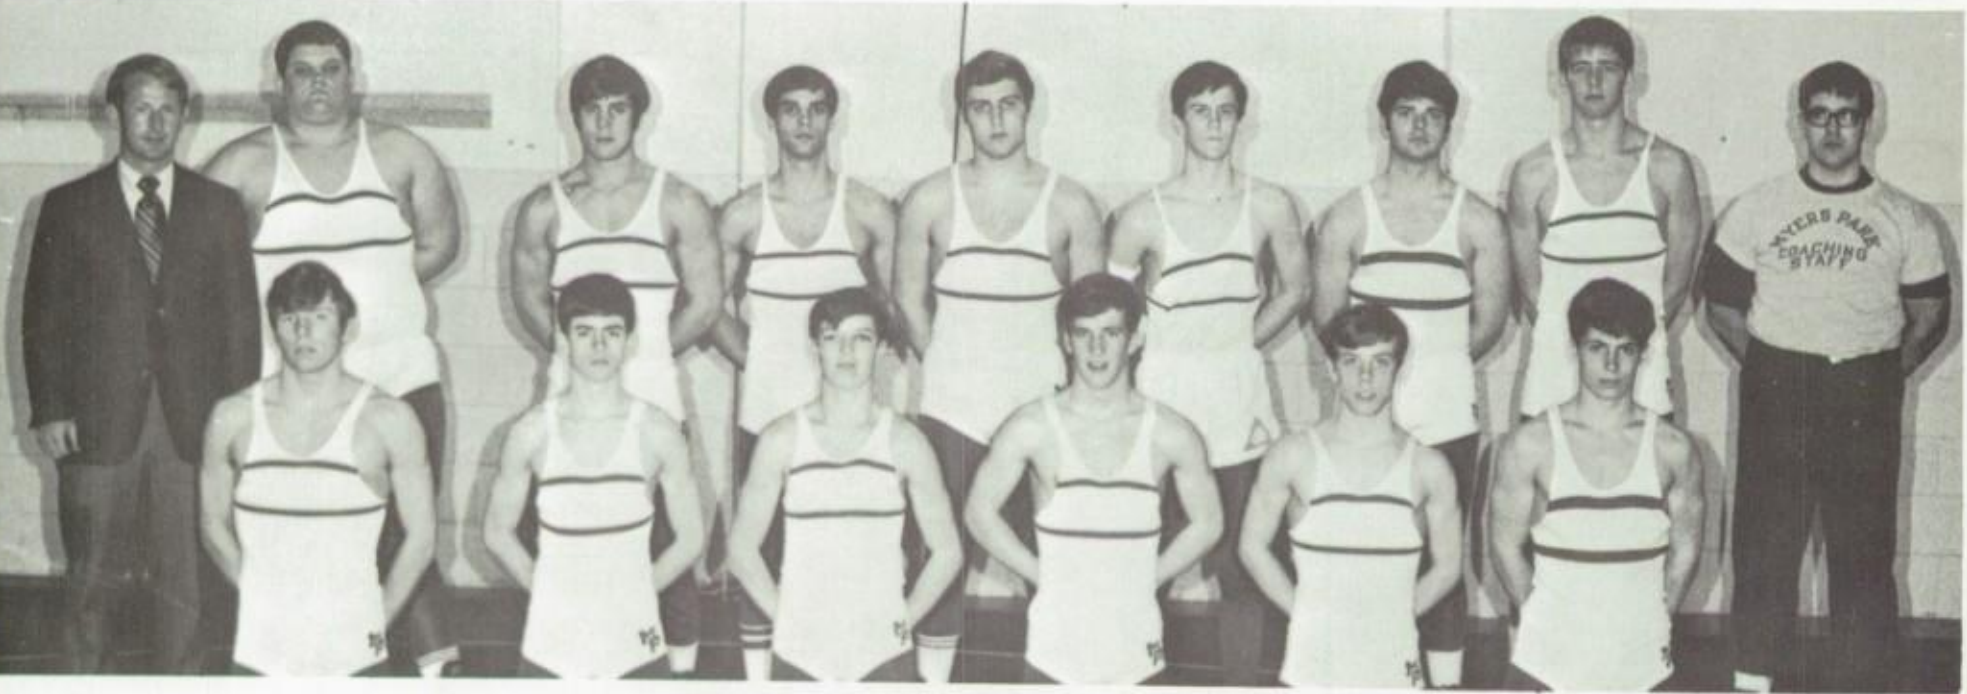

Les Todd smothers his captive in a pinning combination. Todd was a valuable wrestler, scoring 30 points in 12 matches.

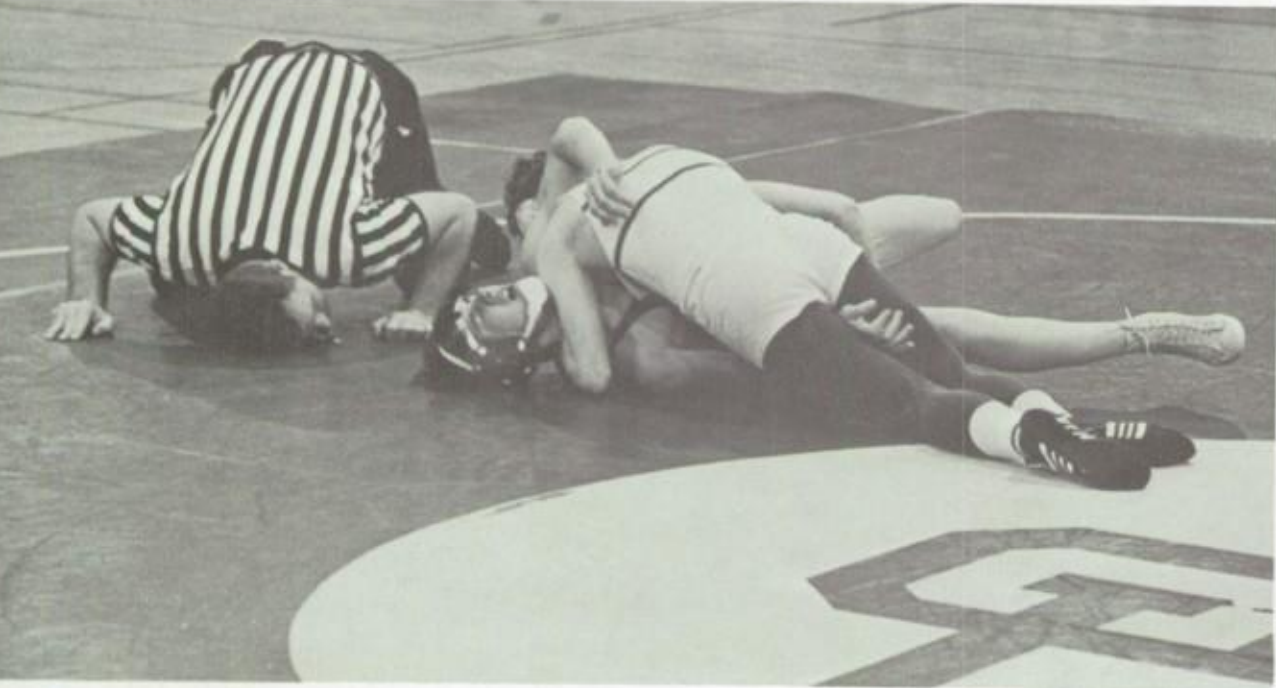

With a devastating hold, cunning Senior Randy Kabrick wrenches his opponent into submission. In only 14 matches, Kabrick scored 31 points for the Mustangs.

Tom Uhl adds another victory to his impressive slate. Uhl won 8 matches, of which 2 were pins, and he gave up only 2 decisions. His experience will make him a valuable and respected wrestler next year.

With precise technique, Akers takes down another unfortunate opponent to score a deserving victory.

Mark Cherry coolly aims his free throw to lay in an important point for the Myers Park team.

Balance, Strength, and Skill Propel A Victorious Mustang Onslaught

Ostensible balance in the Mustang Squad was complemented by outstanding individual endeavor in this up and down year of brilliant victories and hard-fought defeats. Any team facing the Myers Park five had to withstand the double-pronged attack of individual skill and group cooperation.

Inspiring his teammates by snatching vital rebounds, Steve Kurtz emerged as the strongest offensive threat beneath the boards, with 409 points and 176 rebounds. Kurtz shot forty-five percent in play and seventy-four percent from the foul line. His height and ability were complemented by the agile skill of tall Richard Salisbury, who grabbed 101 rebounds from the hands of towering opponents. Alan Mayfield worked closely with Kurtz and Salisbury, proving his unusual rebounding and shooting ability underneath.

Harry Watkins directed the team's plays as guard. His accurate shooting under pressure and his agile defensive maneuvers made him a valuable ally in game situations. Eluding opposing defenders with fakes and pinpoint passing, Watkins sparked the team toward greater achievement. In addition, Watkins aided the defensive effort by securing 73 rebounds.

Larry Ruddell's capabilities as a guard were essential to victory in a large number of games. Ruddell distinguished himself as a good shooter, and he was especially effective on zones.

In many situations, Mark Fellers proved himself to be as versatile in basketball as in football. Time after time he foiled the stunned opponent's offense by key steals and 110 rebounds. Fellers was tough in the clutch, and he often demonstrated his deadly accuracy in shots from the corner. A versatile shooter who worked closely with Fellers was Bill Kennedy. Kennedy's spirit and hustle imbued the team with more vigor.

Some of the finest ball handling efforts were made by Mark Cherry, Dwight Kempf, Andy Salisbury, and Chan Hardwick. These individuals showed much ability in the fine arts of dribbling, jumping, and shooting. Bobby Weathers was a good floor leader. His outstanding traits of spirit and hustle were valuable in the season's contests.

Close Team Effort

The Mustangs battled with skill and determination against unusually rugged opposition this season. Fast rebounding and accurate shooting helped the team to win in close situations. The team was characterized by balanced defense and offense, but individuals distinguished themselves in many vital situations. This combination of individualism and cooperation helped the Mustangs win second place in a tough division.

The Roundballers opened with an impressive victory over High Point in which Steve Kurtz and Harry Watkins displayed outstanding performances. East managed to edge the Mustangs in the following games,

Prevails Despite Many Vigorous Opponents

The winning streak continued as Larry Ruddell and Andy Salisbury helped the Mustangs race by Independence.

Hickory was able to slip by the Mustangs the first time due to a disappointing second half, even though Kurtz and Watkins scored 24 and 16 points respectively. The second loss to East, however, was overshadowed by a triumphant surge over Hickory in a second game overtime classic. The shooting combination of Watkins, Kurtz, Richard Salisbury, Fellers and Mayfield could not be stopped by the renowned Hickory defense.

Olympic was the next victim of the Myers Park five, with Mark Fellers displaying his remarkable outside shooting skill. Dwight Kempf then guided the Mustangs to a stunning defeat of North.

Ashley's slow strategy held off a consistently threatening Myers Park offense and enabled the Green Wave to defeat the Mustangs by merely two points. Larry Ruddell played an exceptional game.

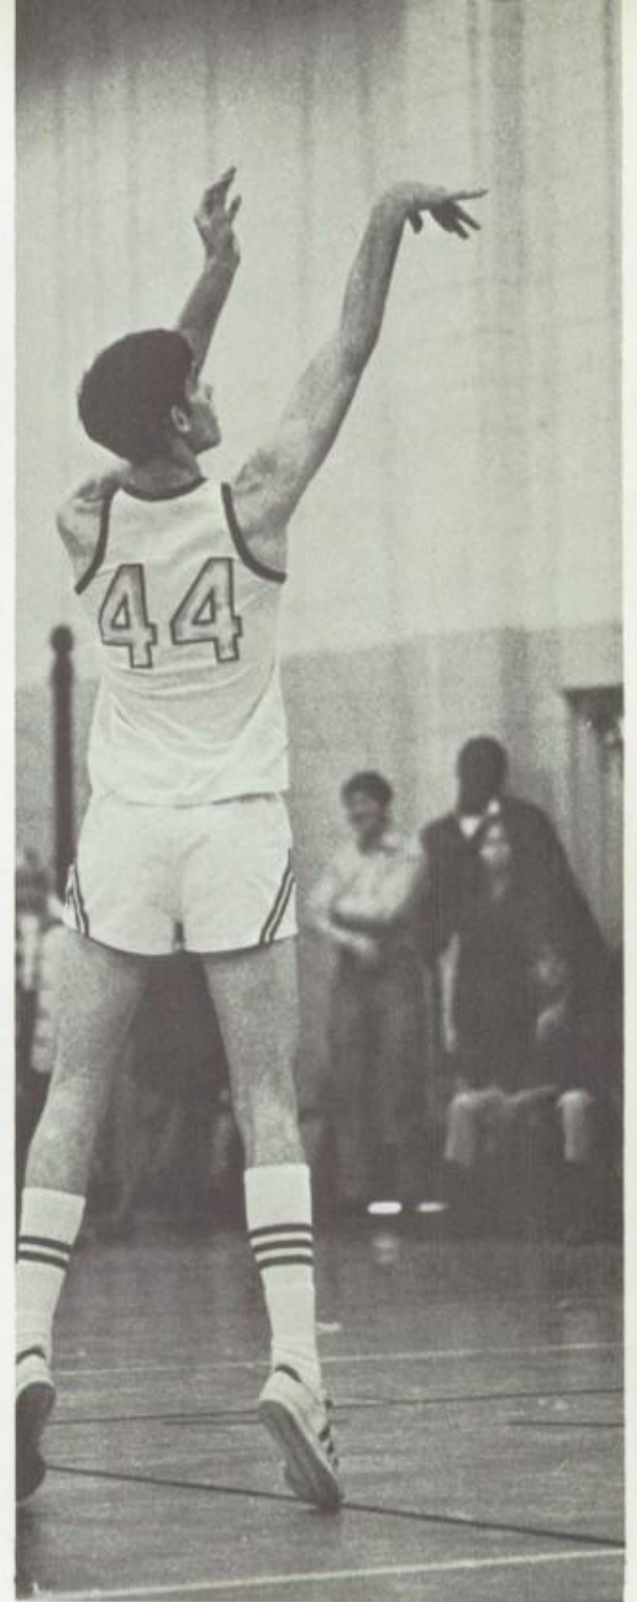

The Mustang offense was brilliantly successful against West Mecklenburg. However, a high-powered Myers Park rally failed to defeat Harding.

South managed to evade a tenacious Mustang defense to sink the 'Stangs, but Kurtz took high scoring honors in this contest. Mark Cherry and Harry Watkins continually broke through the Olympic defense to win the next game, and a free throw by Kurtz placed the Mustangs again over North.

A one-point loss to Ashley and a win over Harding accorded the Mustangs second place in the division.

Ponies Display Keen Maneuvers on Court

The 1969-1970 junior varsity basketball team opened with a discouraging defeat at the hands of High Point. The Ponies met East Mecklenburg for their second game, and this marked the beginning of a four-game winning streak. In a return match with East, the JV's dropped a heart breaker in the last seconds.

On January 6, the division competition opened with a satisfying rout of the Olympic Trojans. After a disappointing loss to arch-rival Ashley, the Ponies battled successfully in a five-game winning streak. Climaxing the victory string was a thrilling win over South. The season was finished with another defeat by Ashley, a victory over West, and losses to Harding and South. The JV's were barely squeezed out by North in the second round of the tournament.

This year's squad was surprising in many respects. The Ponies began slowly but progressed to establish a record in keeping with the proud Junior Varsity heritage. Coach Wayne Ayers contributed much by molding the young Mustangs into a smoothly running, much respected ball club.

The JV's relied on accurate shooting, speed, and a sticky, pressing defense to compensate for lack of height. A well-balanced pattern offense was led by Jim Gallagher, Don Lindsay, and Hal Peacock. The defense was sparked by the quick, alert play of Sylvester Chappell. Dominating the boards, David Warren and Peacock snatched more than their share of rebounds. Langley Perry, coming off the bench as the sixth man, aided the Mustang cause by his unusual effort.

As Hal Peacock (42) and Sylvester Chappell (32) guard their opponents, David Warren releases a deadly jump shot to score for the Mustangs. Warren's accuracy pulled the team through many close situations.

An astounded opponent panics as Warren (40) aims for another unopposed basket. Warren is offered good protection by his loyal teammates.

Hal Peacock (42) wrests the ball from the hands of the other team. Peacock was a vital player who rescued many tight situations for his team.

Unruffled by his opponents, John Broadway (31) confidently aims the ball for the net. Broadway was a regular player in many games.

The natural jumping ability of Hal Peacock (42) gives MP a decided advantage in the crucial jump. David Warren (40) stands ready to receive the ball and begin the scoring pattern. Warren and Peacock were outstanding in all games.

Warren (40) and Chappell (32) await impatiently the results of a shot. Their quickness underneath the boards was vital in each victory.

Don Lindsay (10) leaps high above the referee to capture a rebound for the Mustangs. This type of outstanding performance won the 14 victories.

State Meet 2nd Place

Determination and balance were the secrets of this year's swimming team. A sophomore, Bruce Dickson, proved his ability by consistently placing first in individual events. At the state meet, Bruce took first in the Individual Medley and set a state record in the 400-yard Freestyle. Many other underclassmen dominated the Mermen, making it the best in many seasons for Myers Park. Ned Fiss led the 100-yard Butterfly, while versatile Ricky Prince swam the backstroke and freestyle events. Many sophomores, such as Ned Cochrane and Charles Kemp, spurred the team to extraordinary achievements.

Relays were an additive to a fantastic team. The Freestyle Relay, constituted by Bruce Dickson, Paul Schiffel, Ned Fiss, and Ricky Prince started a comeback thrust over its determined competitors in the conference meet. This relay team, consisting of underclassmen, raced to third place in the state meet and should better their placement next year. The Medley Relay, consisting of Buddy Brietz, Kelly Grice, Ned Fiss, and Ken Skaggs, showed their individual abilities by capturing third place in the state.

Although the team will lose four experienced seniors, the 1970-1971 Mermen should be replenished with a surge of sophomores and juniors.

Ricky Prince confidently acquires another key win.

All-American diver Jack Morrow exhibits his diving talents for his third consecutive state title.

Versatile in many strokes, Charles Kemp adds his abilities towards the success of the team.

Leading the team in butterfly, Ned Fiss outstrokes his opponents in the relay and also proves his additional importance in individual events.

All-American sophomore Bruce "Speedy" Dickson contributes toward relay victory. He led the team in freestyle, and he was anchor man in two relays.

FIRST ROW: Dunaway, Cochrane, Dickson, Kemp, Grice, SECOND ROW: Prince, Fiss, Schiffel, McFarland, Stroup, Armistead, Benton, May, THIRD ROW: Morrow, Campbell, Hugenschuett, Brietz, Sinnicks.

Jack Morrow's remarkable coordination enables him to begin this difficult, winning dive.

Underclassman Influx Essential in Securing an Impressive Record

Bill Campbell amazes the judges with the accuracy, form, and timing in his competitive dives.

This year's Mermen turned out to be one of the best swimming teams in the school's history. The Mermen produced an impressive 13-2 record, losing only to Grimsley High School and Chapel Hill High School. Crammed with experience and the help of new underclassmen, the Mermen were outstanding all year.

All-American Jack Morrow captured the state title for the third consecutive year. Morrow's performances were brilliant demonstrations of his art, and he was quite valuable to the team. The absence of his steady points, along with those of Bill Campbell, Buddy Brietz, and Ken Skaggs, will be missed, but many new faces are expected to replace these great swimmers.

"Speedy" Dickson swims breast stroke, one event of the individual medley in which he took state first.

The Queens College pool provides the backdrop for a typical backstroke win by senior Buddy Brietz, who was vital in this stroke for the Mustangs.

Keely Grice, a promising sophomore, swims the breast stroke in a meet at Chapel Hill. Keely was one of many outstanding sophomores on the swim team.

Charlie Akers powers himself over in a tremendous leap. Akers was strong in pole vault all year.

Ned Dietler, tough 2-miler for Myers Park, finishes his race in a burst of speed ahead of opponents.

Bill Sanders initiates his powerful shot put throw. Sanders was a strong contender in all meets.

Dennis Griffin plows through far ahead of other contenders in another relay victory for the Mustangs.

Persevering Runners Capture MP's Tenth N. C. State Track Title

Power is the word for John Davis. In all sports, this athlete showed strength, but his power is especially evident in this picture, where he outhurdles determined opposition, running in the forefront for a win.

John Brown propels a relay forward with incredible speed and agility for uncontested victory.

Mike Caldwell, the most versatile of the Mustang runners, claims another first for his team.

Champion discus thrower Richard Salisbury winds up for one of his long, smooth distance hurls.

Hank Barge looks to the sky as he propels his discus into a winning trajectory.

The Myers Park track squad for 1970 was a group of outstanding individual athletes who cooperated under the inspired coaching of Stuart Allen to achieve the deserved title of State Champion. It was more than a team: it was a unified effort in which superiority in each individual made the whole outstanding. No team in North Carolina could even approach the quality of the Mustang team; this is reflected in the fifteen point margin of state victory. Much credit should be given to the individual athlete. But Coach Allen, recognized as one of the nation's top coaches, must be given the credit for initiating the effort through inspiration and teaching.

If any athlete could epitomize the team as a whole, it must be Pike Jones. With hard work, this runner widened the scope of his natural talent to become the fastest runner in North Carolina in the 100-yard dash and 220 sprint. The running of Jones inspired other runners, such as Ozzie Moore and Jim Chapman, to win.

Mike Caldwell was a mainstay of the team, winning in the two mile, mile, and 880-yard runs. Ned Dietler solidly upheld the two mile. In hurdles competition, John Davis, Curt Wilder, and Dennis Griffin established fine records. The mile relay was also a success.

In field competition, Chuck Adkins was unbeaten in the long jump. Bill Sanders and Hank Barge were honored in the shot put; and Barge and Richard Salisbury captured state honors in discus.

Hal Peacock turns his baton over to capable Dennis Griffin after an arduous trek.

Rick Osborne (21) speeds to first after a bat-torturing smash into the far backfield.

Earl Armstrong pays close attention to the pitch at his third base vantage position.

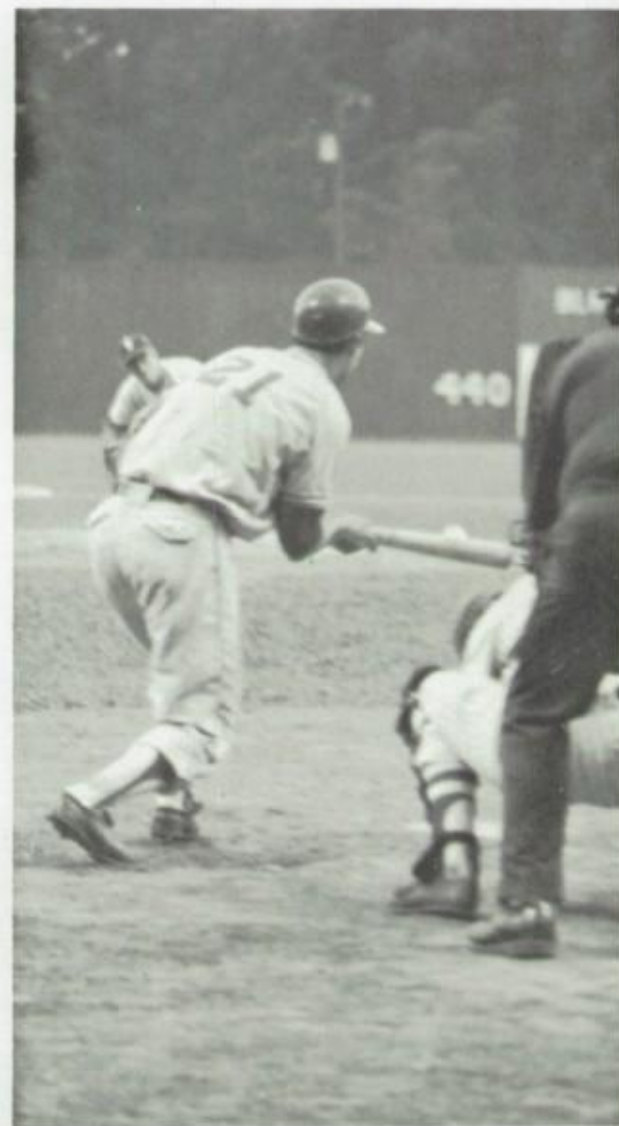

Marshall Sloan, support pitcher for the Mustangs, proves his versatility and keen eye at home.

Brad Biggers employs efficient pitching strategy for a strike out. Biggers amazed or bewildered a majority of his batters into striking out with his accurate and powerful pitches.

Bobby Weathers waits anxiously on third as Rick Osborne drives the ball against Catholic.

George Harrison rounds third for a home run. Harrison's speed secured many runs for the Mustangs.

Rick Osborne bunts the ball to gain first base in a tight situation against Asheville.

Effective Pitching and

Myers Park athletics has surprised everyone this year, but no sport has aroused such total and unexpected interest as baseball. Coach Jack Sink's Mustangs captured the conference and state championships behind the able pitching of Brad Biggers. In doing so, they further unified the Mustang spirit of the whole school.

Four hitters led the way for Myers Park this year. Rock McCall, the lead-off batter, averaged .426 for the season. Playing second base, he generally initiated Mustang rallies. McCall was famed for stealing. Larry Ruddel came from the basketball court to average around .400 batting in second position and to hold down left field. Mark Fellers, the third hitter, contributed many timely homers at .450 and disappointed numerous would-be hitters by catching their flies in the outfield. The fourth leading hitter for Myers Park was also the strike-out artist on pitcher's mound. Brad Biggers averaged .385 batting and went into the playoffs with a strike-out-to-innings-pitched ratio of 104 to 75.

Much credit must be given to Biggers for his outstanding pitching performances. He always withstood great pressure in games where other pitchers were rated higher than he — and he nearly always won. He seemed to perform the impossible, downing Garinger, Asheville, and Kinston High Schools. Marshall Sloan always stood by to substitute admirably for Biggers.

Biggers and Sloan were given strong support from the backfield. Some outstanding catches were made by Bobby Weathers and his teammates. The quick plays between the bases won many outs; and catcher Rick Osborne held home plate with successful determination.

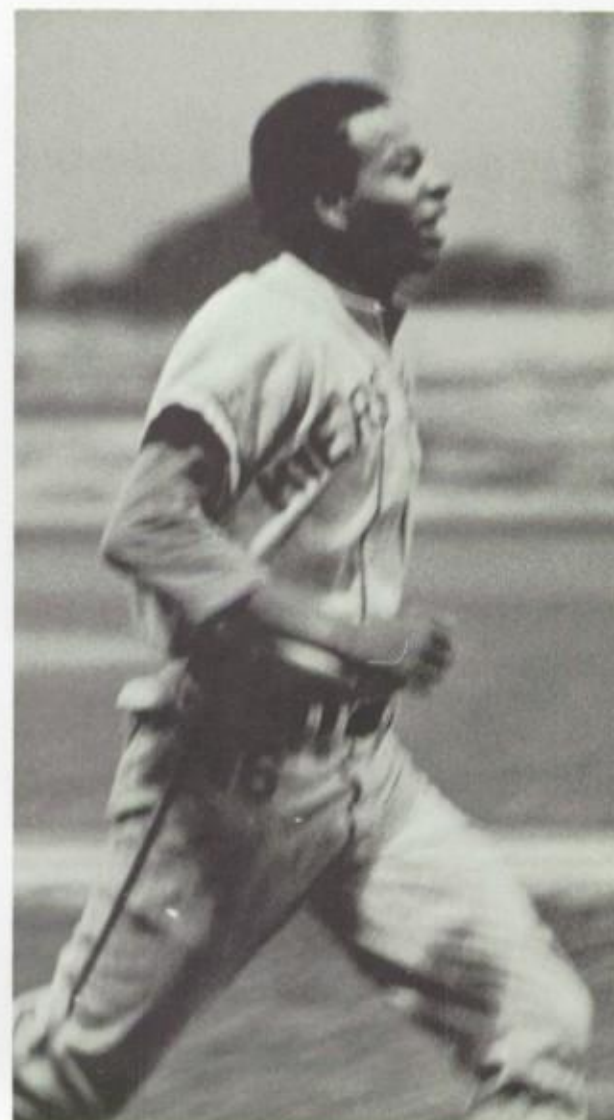

The baseball team was, above all, unified. While outstanding performances were commonplace, the team effort won the championship.

George Harrison flies toward second base in a key steal, outdistancing both the fielders and the ball. This type of bold action by the team contributed greatly to the state championship.

Baseball Becomes a Mania as Mustangs Advance to State

George Harrison prepares for a base hit in an important playoff game against the Wildcats of Garinger. Myers Park won this pitching duel by a wide margin of 8-5, defeating a favored team.

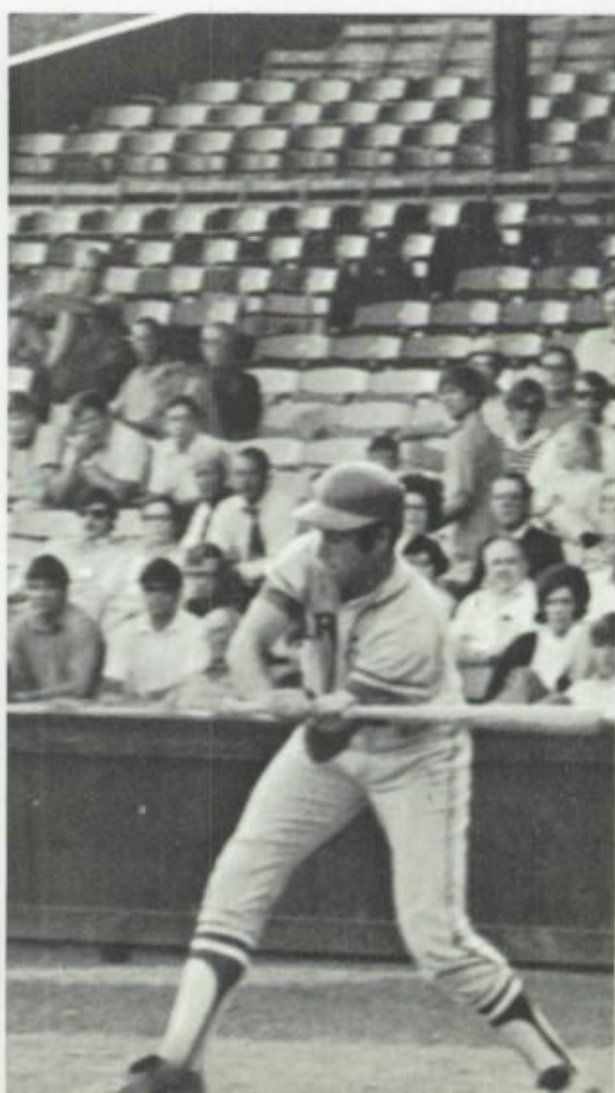

Mark Fellers uses sound judgment in rejecting a pitch from the Asheville hurler. Fellers was an important hitter in the close playoff battle with Asheville, which Myers Park won 4-3.

Earl Armstrong (25) outraces the ball to score one of Myers Park's 15 homers against Catholic, while Rock McCall (10), leadoff batter for the Mustangs, prepares to slug another home run.

Catcher Rick Osborne accepts congratulations upon his team's State 4A championship.

Larry Ruddell, a reliable slugger for the Mustangs, concentrates on clouting a hit against Asheville.

Underclassman John McCann's golfing talent gives support to the team. He will star in the future.

Senior Skipper Dunaway belts a long, graceful drive down the fairway with natural skill.

A top ranked high school golfer in Mecklenburg County, Lex Alexander swings accurately for success.

Effective Golfing Exhibited by an Unusually Well-Balanced Team

Seniors Skipper Dunaway, Lex Alexander, and Justin Eller lead the squad for the year.

This year's golf team proved to be very erratic in its performance. Three seniors, Lex Alexander, Skipper Dunaway, and Rocky Roland, led the team in both play and leadership. Added to the team second semester, Roland showed his individual efforts by consistently battling with Alexander and Dunaway for first man. The conference produced unusually well-balanced teams, which called for peak performances from all the golf members. This well-balanced conference proved tough as the Myers Park golfers finished second in the sectional meets.

As the season wore on, many matches became real tests of golfing abilities for the Mustangs. Having to play their first four matches in the rain had an unfavorable bearing on their performances. Toward the end of the season, the golf team jelled and put forth a truly conscientious effort toward winning.

Backing up the seniors with consistent play were John McCann, Blair Plyler, and other underclassmen. These underclassmen added their individual talents to the Mustang cause, along with those of John Arrendell and Ken Millette. With these combined performances, Myers Park was well represented in the conference.

1970 Golf Team: Skipper Dunaway, Lex Alexander, Justin Eller, John McCann, Blair Plyler, John Arrendell.

Blair Plyler, already strong on the green, will return next year as a strong Mustang golfer.

Agile Tennis Players Control Conference

Myers Park's tennis team was blessed with talent, experience, and desire to achieve. From the very first, the team experienced its major competition in matches between its own members, who constantly strove for higher positions in the roster. Hard practice molded each man into a capable tennis player who could stand up well against most competition. The results of this work are seen in the team's tremendous record as third in North Carolina; they missed first by a mere two points. The great Mustang tennis tradition was advanced to new prestige.

The Four Horsemen of the tennis team were Bill Ashley, Frank Leitner, Doug Bethune, and Richard Connally. A conference winner in individuals, Ashley went on to capture fourth in the state in individuals. He teamed with Frank Leitner to capture second in conference in doubles. Bethune and Connally aided the Mustang cause by winning conference doubles and taking second in state doubles. These four players were invaluable to the tennis effort. Their skills secured otherwise close matches.

They were, however, backed up by many other capable players. Chuck Derby, sophomore fifth man, showed tremendous promise. Bill Francis, David Mueller, David Boggs, and Scott Morrow gave much-needed support to the top five. The combined efforts of the whole squad made the team a success, and the future holds much promise for those returning to this strong Mustang team.

Senior Frank Leitner delivers a death-dealing serve to his opponent in an easily won match.

Junior Bill Ashley relaxes between rounds. Ashley was the team's most promising player.

Rettke, Francis, Derby, Ashley, Mueller, Boggs, Morrow (Missing: Bethune, Connally, Leitner).

Sophomore Chuck Derby, fifth man for the Mustangs, delivers a speedy but accurate serve over the net.

Junior expert Richard Connally places the ball over the net with very quick but steady aim.

Frank Leitner executes his arabesque in a gracious return for a brilliant victory.

Coach Purcell intently surveys the situation before directing his players in a crucial game.

Coach Cloaninger gives advice and instruction to his tennis team before an important match.

Coach Stuart Allen performs some of his many, varied duties as athletic director.

Mustang Coaches Inspire Individual Efforts and Team Victories

Coach Abrams imparts his vital enthusiasm to an embattled football squad in a tough situation.

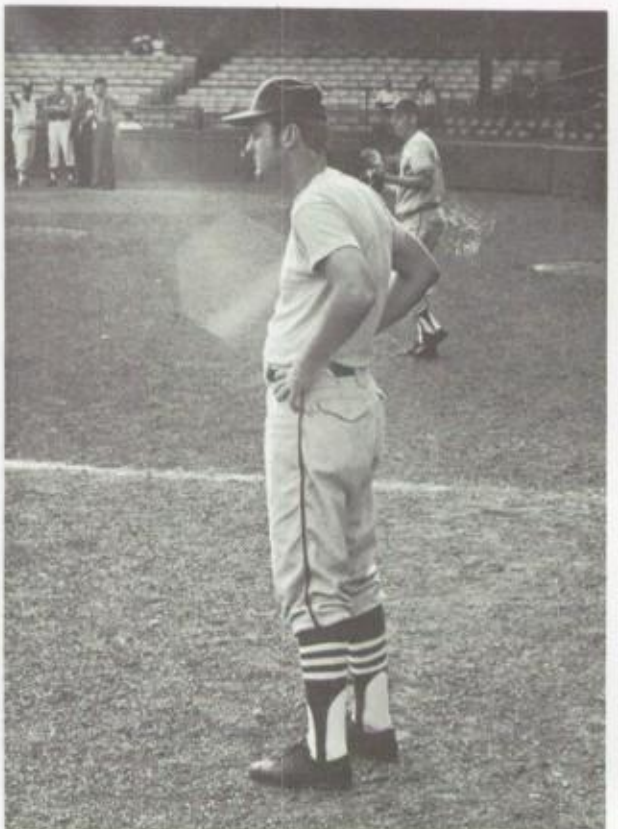

The Myers Park coaches as a whole this year were the men who made the good teams great, for they directed seven different teams to state play-offs. Always working and forever inspiring, these men molded their athletes into conditioned, experienced participants. While interested in the present, they looked to the future, striving for improvement in individual achievement and team unity.

Stuart Allen, nationally recognized as a track coach, supervised the athletic department and coordinated the achievement which finally led to the Sheppard Cup. Gus Purcell led his football team to state semi-finals, while Bill Cloaninger coached the state champion cross country team and also the powerful swimming and tennis teams. Floyd Campbell courageously encouraged the soccer team, and Joe Peel shaped a feared wrestling squad. The basketball team was ably-supported by Jim Hartman. Wayne Ayers assumed the trying job of building the JV basketball and baseball teams. Finally, faithful baseball Coach Jack Sink realized his lifelong dream when the final Kinston batter went down and Myers Park claimed another 4A victory.

A determined Coach Ayers reviews the game before conferring with Coach Sink and the umpire.

Proud Coach Sink congratulates Rock McCall after his team won the state baseball title.

A threat both defensively and offensively, Chan Hardwick caps opponents during an intramural game as teammate Mark Cherry observes the action and uses both judgment and past experience to act accordingly.

With poise and accuracy, Richard Salisbury lays up a snowbird as his opponents sadly watch.

David Warren's total concentration is emphasized while delicately shooting a free throw.

Athletic Participation Is Greatly Encouraged

Boys' intramurals at Myers Park revealed a new interest in athletics never before expressed. The intramurals were coordinated by capable Coach Wayne Ayers along with his expert student assistants. One of the best intramural seasons at Myers Park was thus produced.

The football intramurals were dominated by the seniors with their incredibly wily tactics. Coach Ayers risked his life many times as a referee between the formidable opponents in their "tag" football matches. He miraculously came through these contests with flying colors.

Basketball intramurals produced interesting results. The Nubs, composed of varsity basketball stars, were the pre-season choice of all of the critics and news media of Myers Park. The Nubs defeated all of their opponents in decisive victories to gain a berth in the finals. However, another dark horse team, the Temptations, worked their way into the finals with an identical record to the Nubs. Seeming to rise out of Limbo, the Temptations seemed formidable; and the critics' choice for the final winner became this new and excitingly fashioned squad. In the game of the year, the Nubs pulled ahead with expert ball-handling and daring defense, but the Temptations fought back with a combined offensive and defensive effort to tie the game.

Brown and Hardwick battle for the jump ball to start one of the many games.

Wyndham Shaw, with the football, eludes defenders with body English and footwork for yardage.

Quarterback Shaw intimidates the opposition as he tiptoes the sidelines.

Combining shooting ability and natural talent, Mark Cherry pumps a jumper as amazed Dwight Kempf, Don Lindsay, David Warren, and John Brown watch.

By Boys' Intramural Program Providing for Spirited Competition

Taking the lead at last, the fiery Temptations tempted the Nubs to regain the lead, and so they did. During the last quarter, the Temptations pulled ahead for a close victory.

The intramural season was a vital element of the athletic program because it gave boys the opportunity to take part in athletics who otherwise would not have had the opportunity to do so. Intramurals provided a situation in which everyone participating could feel that he was fulfilling an important role — playing a part — and this is part of the answer to the feeling of alienation that can overtake students in such a large and competitive school-life situation.

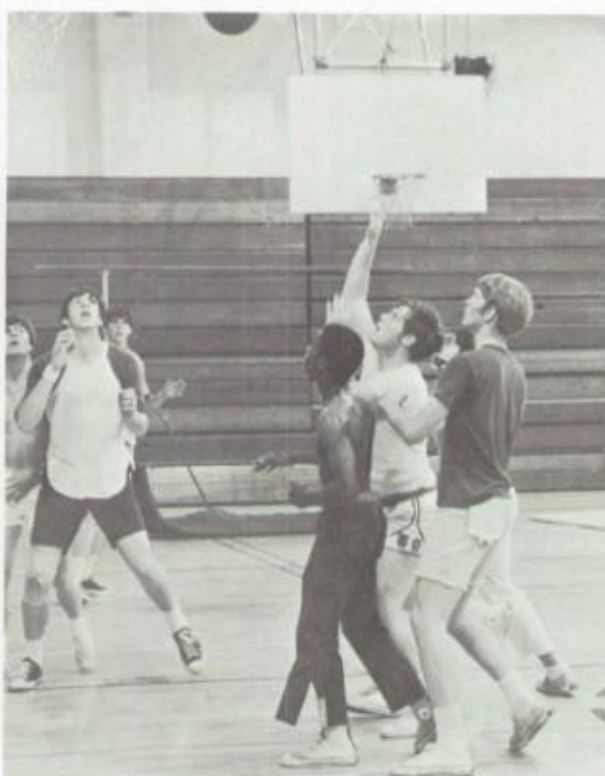

Behind positioned pass blocking, Quarterback Shaw spirals a bomb to a potential downfield receiver.

Steve Kurtz shoots an easy jumper as Frank Altany attempts to block Kurtz's shot.

Tom Sykes "throws" an unexpected shot during a game.

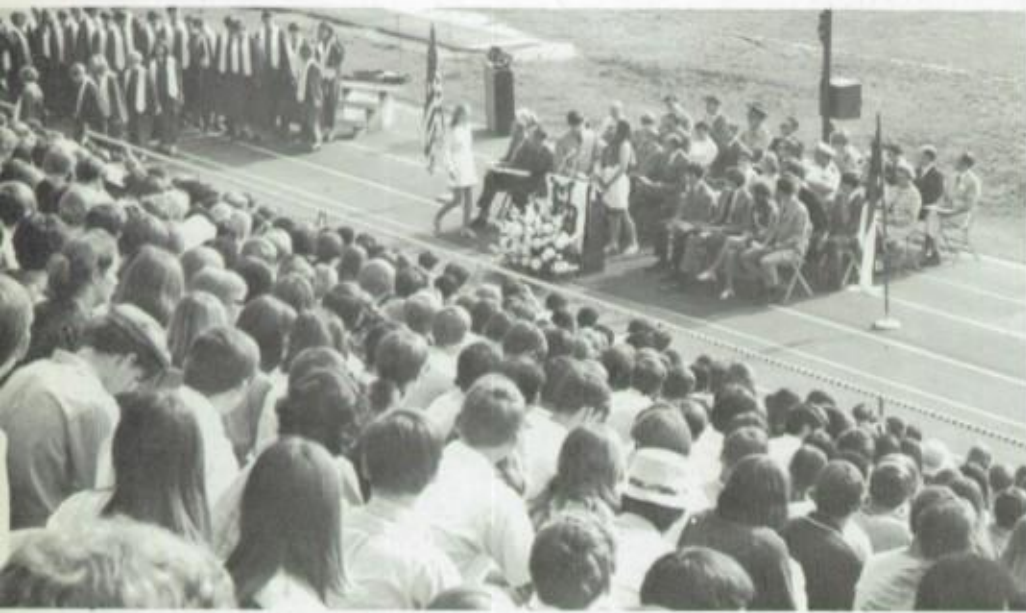

Using his high jumping talent, Hal Peacock hovers over his opponents to shoot an easy layup.
